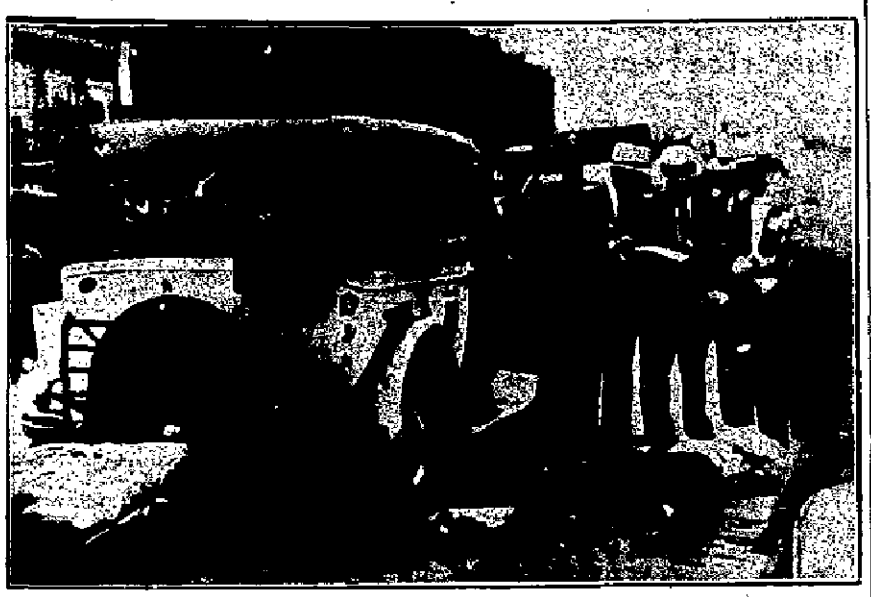
BRINGS DEATH TO SIX IN BATTLE



This Associated Press telephoto shows the bullet-riddled taxicab in which two payroll robbers and the driver were killed by police after a 12-mile running gun fight through New York streets. Two policemen and a four-year-old girl were fatally wounded and 12 other persons were injured during the hour and a half battle.

LINDBERGHS IN NEMURO TODAY

Flying Couple Reach City After Negotiating Treacherous Flight.

FOUR TIMES FORCED DOWN

Gets Riotous Greetings from Residents; Plane Shows Buffeting.

By The Associated Press

NEMURO, Japan, Aug. 24—Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh finally reached Nemuro today after having spent five days and made four forced landings in negotiating the 897 miles from Petropavlovsk, Kamchatka, via the foggy Kurile island route.

Leaving Lake Annoro, Kunashiri island, 50 miles north of here, where they were forced to descend yesterday, at 7:23 a. m. (5:23 p. m. Sunday, Marion time), the Lindberghs landed here at 7:51 a. m. (5:51 p. m. Marion time.)

Taken Ashore

The fliers were hurried ashore in a launch, escorted by city officials. They raised their hands in acknowledgment of the tremendous ovation. Mrs. Lindbergh bowed and smiled as hundreds of school children waved Japanese and American flags and chorused a welcome.

The colonel smiled and said: "We are a bit late."

Hurried to their hotel for a moment's rest, the Lindberghs were soon forced to come to their balcony and acknowledge the tribute of immense throngs that gathered in the adjacent streets. Again the colonel spoke.

"We are glad to be in Nomuro," he said. "Thank you, thank you."

The Lindberghs then withdrew to their rooms where hot baths had been prepared in the vat-like Japanese tubs.

Colonel Lindbergh said the worst experiences of the much interrupted flight from Petropavlovsk were the perplexing fog they encountered while trying to land here Sunday, forcing them back to Annoro bay, and the transfer of the plane from Ketoi island, in the central Kuriles, to Muroton bay, Shimushiru island, at the end of a tow line attached to a Japanese government steamer.

The transfer effected in choppy seas, required several hours.

Tells of Anxiety

"It was an exciting time," he said. "The seas caused a strain in the tow line, which, in fact, broke several times, causing us much anxiety. It was a great relief to arrive at Muroton bay after the 18-mile tow."

The monoplane showed the effects of the buffeting it received while it lay off Ketoi island and during the tow to Muroton bay. A metal bar connecting the pontoons was badly bent and was reinforced temporarily with a two-inch piece of wood, wired onto the connection.

When the couple will take off for the Kasumigaura naval base, near Tokyo, the official finish of their flight, was not immediately learned. However, they probably will leave early Tuesday.

Ford Employes Will Take Up Shovel and Hoe

IRON MOUNTAIN, Mich., Aug. 24—An edict that family men employed by the Ford Motor Co. will have to go in for gardening or give up their jobs, has been issued by Henry Ford, Detroit automobile manufacturer.

He announced yesterday that his "no garden, no job" plans would be put into effect next year as a means of alleviating temporary business depression, and expressed the belief that if they proved successful other companies throughout the country would take similar steps.

"When the people of our country learn to help themselves they will be benefitted far greater than they would be by unemployment insurance as is being suggested in congress," Ford said. "If our agricultural plans are adopted throughout the country, such a thing as the dole system need never be thought of."

Family men who have no available space for gardening Ford said, would be supplied with land by the company, which would provide expert advice for those not familiar with garden work. He added that an investigation would be started soon to determine which of his employes needed instruction.

"Next year every man with a family who is employed at the plant will be required to have a garden of sufficient size to supply his family with at least a part of his winters vegetables or he will find himself without a job," Ford said.

Ford made his announcement following a tour of inspection. He said he had given considerable study to the problem and had come to the conclusion that there was no use trying to help men who did not try to help themselves by raising foodstuffs.

CUBA PREPARES FOR NEW REBEL UPRISING

Insurgents Stage Fresh Outbreak, Resulting in Three Fatalities

HAVANA, Aug. 24—Fresh outbreaks in the eastern province of Cuba, last night caused the government today to hurry additional troops into Oriente in the belief that rebels concentrated at a number of strategic points might attempt a surprise maneuver.

Three insurgents were killed and a number wounded and taken prisoners when one of the rebel groups was surprised. A considerable number of arms, a quantity of ammunition and other war material was seized, three bombs exploded here but the damage was slight.

The government issued a statement declaring its confidence in an immediate and successful determination of the uprising a few hours before the skirmishing was resumed. President Machado, back from Santa Clara since Saturday, was to confer with army heads in Oriente by telephone today.

The president had previously declared the revolt ended and proclaimed a tendency toward harmony in the movement of opposition including General Mario G. Menocal, former president, and Col. Carlos Mendieta.

ANOTHER PAPER PLANT BOMBED

News Building Made Target of Second Attack in 48 Hours.

JOURNAL BOMBED FRIDAY

Rewards of $10,000 Posted by Brush-Moore Newspapers for Arrest.

By Brush-Moore Leased Wire

MANSFIELD, O., Aug. 24—Plans to wreck the plant of the Mansfield News failed Sunday night when a fire bomb, set in a basement stairway, exploded with slight damage. This attempt followed less than 48 hours after the hurling of an explosive bomb in the Mansfield Journal plant.

Brush-Moore Newspapers, Inc., publishers of the News, today posted a $5,000 reward for the arrest and conviction of the person or persons who placed the fire bomb at the News plant.

Offer Big Reward

This is an addition to a reward of $5,000 offered by Brush-Moore Newspapers for the arrest of the person or persons who bombed the Journal plant. The Journal previously offered a reward of $500 for the discovery and conviction of those responsible for bombing its plant.

At approximately 8:30 p. m. Sunday a dull explosive sound was heard by four persons in the News building. This noise was followed immediately by dense sulphur smoke which filled the building and spread for a distance of several blocks.

Firemen under the direction of Chief Frank B. May climbed into the News building by aerial ladder through a third-floor window. Equipped with gas masks firemen made their way down three flights of stairs to the basement, where a smoldering fire bomb quickly was extinguished.

The bomb, composed chiefly of sulphur, with a powder fuse, was the size of a paving brick. The blazing sulphur had burned into the door in a hallway and crept under a second door to a basement barbership where several towels in a shower bath room were ignited. Part of the bomb had burned when located by firemen, but a considerable portion remained in ash form. Police and chemists are examining it today.

At the time of the explosion Harry M. Cochran and H. C. Dittwiler were working in the editorial

MACDONALD TO HEAD ENGLISH CABINET

King Asks Prime Minister To Form New Coalition Government Today.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Aug. 24—J. Ramsay MacDonald's Labor government resigned today in the face of the national financial crisis and Mr. MacDonald was asked by the King to form a temporary national non-party government whose first duty will be to balance the budget.

It will include Conservatives and Liberals. Stanley Baldwin, Conservative leader, and Liberals who have taken over active management of their party during the illness of David Lloyd George agreed at Buckingham palace in the presence of the King to participate in a cabinet in which Mr. Baldwin will serve under Mr. MacDonald.

Has Big Task

This arrangement has its precedent in the coalition government of 1916, formed to create national unity in waging the war.

The new cabinet also has a war of sorts on its hands. Its campaign will be to restore Great Britain's threatened credit in the world of international finance.

Balancing the budget will be the one task of the national government and it is not expected to last more than a few months during which economy bills will be rushed through the house of commons. There probably will be a special session of parliament, and after the nation's finances are straightened out there will doubtless be a general election and the political situation will be clarified.

Mr. MacDonald's government came into office on June 9, 1929, and for nearly two and one-half years struggled with national and world problems whose gravity was increased by the general economic depression.

The present crisis developed two weeks ago with the reports by the government economy committee calling attention to the urgent necessity of balancing the budget in the face of a threatened deficit of $600,000,000.

For two weeks the cabinet has been in emergency session debating measures which would wipe off that deficit, but opposition to measures which is evolved culminated in Mr. MacDonald's resignation.

The Trades Union congress, backbone of the Labor government, interposed objections and there developed a split in the cabinet.

In the new government, which probably will not hold office beyond next Jan. 1, the ministers of the retiring cabinet who supported the prime minister probably will have portfolios.

Those who opposed him may fight the program of the national government in parliament, but from present indications they are not likely to have much chance of success.

Mr. MacDonald's plan is to form a small national cabinet of 12 or 14 ministers instead of the usual 20. The retiring Labor cabinet had 21 members. The smaller group will be more wieldly for quick action.

"I shall be in the new government," said J. H. Thomas, secretary for dominions, as he left Mr. MacDonald's office.

Philip Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer, also seemed certain to remain, and there will probably be half a dozen others as a Labor bloc in the emergency cabinet.

At least nine members of the retiring cabinet were resolutely opposed to some of the economy measures, and these probably will have no place in the national government.

Mr. MacDonald was scheduled to visit the King again this afternoon and his majesty was also to receive leaders of the opposition.

David Lloyd George, the Liberal leader who recently underwent a major operation, received the news of the labor government's fall at his home.

"I'm not surprised," was his laconic comment.

Mr. Lloyd George still holds his strategic political position—he has held the balance of power since the labor government took office—and if he wants to he can command a leading place in the national government.

If the emergency cabinet is to be of short duration, however, he may not recover sufficiently from his illness in time to plunge into the hot parliamentary fight which is certain to occur. In this event such outstanding Liberals as Sir Herbert Samuel and Sir Donald MacLean are likely to replace him in the cabinet.

KENTON MAN NAMED SECRETARY TO WHITE

Carl W. Smith Gets Post of A. C. Crouse, Effective on Sept. 1.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 24—Appointment of Carl W. Smith of Kenton as his secretary effective Sept. 1, was announced today by Governor George White.

Smith will succeed A. C. Crouse of Cincinnati, who resigned. Crouse took office when Governor White was sworn in, with the understanding that he would serve while the legislature was in session. He will resume his old duties as chief probation officer of the court of domestic relations at Cincinnati.

While serving as postmaster at Kenton, an appointee of President Wilson, Smith took a leave of absence and enlisted in the army as a private during the World war. He resumed his postmastership at the close of hostilities, and served in the position for eight years.

Three years ago Smith was Democratic candidate for secretary of state, and last year he was a candidate for congress in the eighth district. He has been active in state American Legion work for years.

TRIO LOOTS SAFE OF MOOSE LODGE

Lorain Robbers Bind Janitor, Two Others, While Doing Work.

By The Associated Press

LORAIN, O., Aug. 24—Three masked robbers early today looted a safe in the club of the Loyal Order of Moose here and escaped with $1,500 after trussing two national officers of the order and the lodge janitor.

The trio was attacking the safe with sledge hammers when surprised by Charles F. Byrd, janitor. Tying him, they proceeded upstairs to a room occupied by Lewis H. Jones, supervisor of the state and Max Lenz, of Cleveland, supreme lodge auditor. Trussing the pair with stripe torn from bed sheets, they completed burglarizing the safe and fled.

IN GUN QUIZ

Seeking information on the shooting and probable suicide of Joseph Apuil, steamship gunner, federal authorities questioned William H. Murray, Jr. (above), son of the governor of Oklahoma, on his return to Oklahoma City from a cruise on the S. S. Southern Cross. It is alleged that the gun with which Apuil was shot was the property of young Murray.

CHURCH ENDS SESSIONS HERE

Pastors Assigned at Closing Meeting of Ohio Evangelical Conference.

13 CHANGES ARE MADE

Deacons and Elders Ordained; Bishop Dunlap Gives Sermon at Services.

The ninety-fourth annual Ohio Evangelical conference closed here yesterday. Four ministers were ordained and pastors assigned for the coming year at the closing session.

No changes were made in the pastors of the local Evangelical churches. E. Rodebaugh was named pastor of Calvary. Irvin Kauffman as pastor of Greenwood and H. E. Williamson as pastor of Oakland. H. H. Maxwell, who has been serving as pastor of the Salem-Grace church since the transfer of Roy Delsinger to Mansfield, was given the official appointment. Only 13 changes were made in the conference.

Calvary church, the scene of the conference last week, was crowded to capacity yesterday afternoon for the ordination of four ministers as deacons and six as elders and the announcement of the assignments. More than 1,000 persons, including pastors, layman delegates and friends of the ministers to be ordained, attended the morning and afternoon sessions.

Conducts Services

The impressive ordination services were conducted by Bishop J. F. Dunlap of Cleveland, assisted by the following presiding elders: W. H. McLaughlin of the Canton district, W. H. Schuster of the Cleveland district, R. A. Sain of the Columbus district and D. L. Caldwell of the Toledo district.

H. J. Dute, whose charge was not announced, H. M. Maurer of Findlay, E. T. Shepherd of Bluefield and W. B. Smith of East Liberty were ordained as deacons and M. G. Deede of Polk, R. A. Kricker of Lancaster, O. V. Lutz of Milan, A. K. McVey of Republic, E. A. Hackgab at Wagram charge and W. J. Shank of Independence were ordained as elders.

Close Three Years

Maurer, Shepherd and Smith complete their three years of study at the conference and are graduates of Ohio Wesleyan university, and graduates of Drew seminary, New York. Dute is a graduate of Ohio Wesleyan university and will complete his [illegible]

ONE DEAD, TWO MAY DIE IN NEW OUTBREAK

Men Kidnaped, Lined Up Against Slaughter House Wall and Shot.

CITY PLANS CRIME DRIVE

Latest Outrage Follows Closely on Bandit Warfare of Friday.

By United Press

NEW YORK, Aug. 24—Gangsters reenacted Chicago's Valentine day massacre in miniature last night in a blazing, deadly defy to New York's crime-stricken citizens mobilizing for a war on crime.

Their gaudy sense of humor led them to back three young men against a wall opposite a slaughter house in a deserted section of Brooklyn, where the victims faced a firing squad of four.

One was killed. The other two may die. Seven died in the Chicago massacre.

The three Brooklyn victims stepped from a gangster sedan in the pitch black stench of the slaughter house district, their faces reflecting their fear of the death they faced, their hands held high in the air.

Four men stepped from the waiting automobile to the curb; a fifth remained at the wheel.

Guns Blaze

There was just one moment of deadly silence, broken only by the easy idling of the motor of the car at the curb.

Then guns blazed.

They blazed defiance of a city aroused by the bandit outrage of last Friday night when six were killed and a dozen were wounded during the deadly running barrage; they mocked a federal and local drive against crime, intended to be the greatest in history.

Three men against the wall toppled to the ground at the first burst.

The blazing guns continued to spit their lead until 30 bullets had been imbedded in human beings or the wall behind them.

The four leaped into their automobile and sped away.

One of the three crumpled figures screamed, stumbled to his feet and staggered down the street. A night watchman on his rounds found him. He called police.

Of the other two limp figures, one was dead, the second suffering wounds probably fatal.

No Weapons

The slain man was identified as Anthony Ferrari, 25, of Brooklyn. His companions were identified as Murray Leonardi, 21, of Brooklyn, and Angelo Carrano, 22, of Brooklyn. Both are in critical condition.

No weapons were found on the victims, but police said Ferrari and Leonardi had served terms in Elmira reformatory.

Police got their story of what happened from Leonardi, who refused to give the names of their assailants.

The victims had been kidnaped from in front of a dance hall. Ferrari was hustled into the sedan first. The others, startled, stood spellbound, then they too were bundled in.

Once the car stopped at a crossing where a traffic watchman was on duty. The kidnaped men were afraid to cry out for help. A moment and the lights changed. They were off. Their last chance for freedom gone.

The attempted duplication of Chicago's St. Valentine day massacre broke on a city organizing a fight on crime, and salvaging the broken hearts, broken homes and broken families formed by the wreckage in the bank wash of Friday's crime wave.

Two No-Hit Games Hurled in Central Ohio Tournament

KAPPAS-IRISH OPEN QUEST FOR CITY SOFTBALL TITLE TODAY

BY BOB KIRKPATRICK

George Hinklin and Johnny Gillis of the Marion Merchants drew the first big hand of the afternoon yesterday in the game with the Mohican Rubber company of Ashland. Hink made a great diving catch of a foul fly off the third base line and then, while almost flat on the ground, flipped the ball backhand to Gillis, covering the plate to nab an Ashland runner attempting to score from third. Gillis came in from first to cover the plate

Ras McMillen poled one of the longest softball boomers seen in Lincoln park for a long time when he smashed one to center field in the first inning of the Elks-Recreation Billiards game. It was an awful wallop and he easily made the circuit before the ball could be relayed in.

If these boys Carmosino and "Doc" Stith get together in the final game of the tournament there will be speed to burn as far as pitching is concerned. Carm whiffed 15 batters for a tournament record yesterday and didn't appear to be using all he had. Stith needs no one to relate how much speed he possesses

The Lima Ghaster Outdoor Ads presented one of the neatest appearing set of uniforms seen in the tourney yesterday when they romped onto the field for their game with the City Coal & Service. The suits a combination of green and black, neatly lettered, they were plenty attractive.

It might be noted here that not a Marion team that has appeared in the tournament yet has played in the neatly uniformed style of the out-of-town teams. In fact the Serv-U-Wel club is the only Marion club playing which has used a full set of the same color

If there were 1500 persons at the park yesterday at least 1200 of them were pulling for the Marion All-Stars to beat the Beck's Barbers of Findlay. Just for the simple reason they are a bunch of youngsters, that's all. Well, the kids kept the score a tie even if they didn't win. Maybe they'll win next week.

* * *

These Gophers have punch when they need it. In the first game of the tourney they battled along through nearly three fourths of the game without getting any scores and then came through with a pair of much needed hits to produce the winning runs against Nevada. Yesterday they went into the seventh trailing 1-0 and hammered out enough hits to bring in three runs. Adams scored one on his homer and drove in the other two on the same hit. And what a hit it was.

1500 FANS CROWD LINCOLN PARK FOR SIX-GAME PROGRAM

Spectators on Edge All the Time by Succession of Brilliantly Played Contests.

Records are only made to be broken in the Central Ohio recreation baseball tournament, progress the last two Sundays at Lincoln park athletic field. On August 16, the opening days of the tourney, approximately 1200 persons filled the park with the largest crowd in the history of the park. Yesterday afternoon this record was shattered when approximately 1500 crowded the park for the second day of competition. On Sunday, Aug. 16 there was one one-hit and two two-hit games hurled. Yesterday were two no-hit games turned in. In the first day of play one hurler collected 14 strikeouts in seven innings' work on the mound. Yesterday another came along and cracked that mark by recording 15 in the seven frames

The Merchant's nine of Marion and the Mohican Rubber company team of Ashland got the second day's play off to a whirlwind start yesterday when they battled through seven frames of snappy ball, the Rubber man coming out ahead 3-2 by virtue of a seventh inning rally.

Penry Smacks Homer

Patrons who saw this game would have had their money's worth, had they not seen another inning. Brilliant plays were in order. The Merchants climbed into a one run lead in the fourth inning when Pohler slammed out a triple and scored on the succeeding play. They held it until the last of the fifth when a triple by Ryland coupled with an error allowed the score to be deadlocked. Don Penry then took the game into his own hands for the time being by banging out a home run with no one on to give the Merchants another one run advantage.

Bob Peadon, hurling for the Merchants, weakened slightly in the seventh and was nicked for three straight hits which netted a pair of runs and won the game. Pohler and Penry got the batting honors

Joe Carmosino, Ghaster Outdoor Ads pitcher of Lima, carved for himself a niche in the tournament hall of fame in the second game of the day when he struck out 15 City Coal & Service Stations batters and allowed not a single hit. The Ghaster nine won the game 2-0. Don Lindsey hurled a good game for the City Coal & Service, good enough to win most days but you can't win games when the rest of the team can't get any runs. And the rest of the team can't get any runs when you pitch like Carmosino hurled yesterday. Just four men reached first off Carmosino, three on free passes. None got any farther. The Ghaster star flipped them by so fast the opposition never had a chance. Conroy and Lerch were the only two men whom Carmosino didn't whiff at some time or another. Conroy batted three times and Lerch came to the plate once. Neither came close to getting a hit but neither were struck out. That's something—in this game

Francis Twirls No Hit

The Serv-U-Wel Grocers of Marion presented Bob Francis with a two run lead in the first inning of their game with Bucyrus O. G. Grocers and then Francis returned the favor by turning in the second no-hit game in succession.

Francis didn't hurl the game that Carmosino did in the preceding encounter but he did turn in a game that any pitcher might well be proud of. He struck out but one man but had the others hitting little pop flys that made it child's play for his fielders. Claude Jerew gave Francis a big boost toward a non-hit game when he made a nice running catch of Hill's fly in deep center in the eighth inning.

If the tourney management had been willing it is quite possible that the right fielder never had a chance to get to it.

The tournament will continue next Sunday at the same place. The schedule will be released in this publication on Tuesday

CHAMPS ARE HANDED FIRST SHUTOUT LOSS OF CURRENT SEASON

Coffman Hurls Three-Hit Game To Snap Lefty Groves' Winning Streak.

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

The St. Louis Browns, who have proved annoying opponents for Philadelphia's Athletics all season, have deprived Lefty Grove, the A's southpaw ace, of a chance to set a new American league record

Grove won 16 successive games, tieing the mark set in 1912 by Smoky Joe Wood and Walter Johnson, before he ran into the Browns and Dick Coffman yesterday in the first game of a double header. He pitched another good game, giving only seven hits and one run, but Coffman was a little better. The St. Louis hurler held the champions to three hits for the first time this year and gave them their first shutout of the year.

The second game was more like the usual thing when the Athletics play. Waite Hoyt held the Browns to four hits while the A's pounded out 17 to win 10 to 0.

Another record of sorts turned

GUNDER AND RANK TO OCCUPY MOUND IN OPENING BATTLE

Marion Championship Series Starts at 6 P. M. at Lincoln Park Field.

The city recreation baseball championship now held by the Erie Roundhouse goes on the block today. The Kappa fraternity of the Commercial league and St. Mary of the No. 1 Sunday school circuit launch the Little World's Series at Lincoln park, the ultimate goal being the title the city's best softball team. Two other teams, the C. D. & M. and First Presbyterians will continue the series Tuesday night in a second game. All games will commence at 6 p. m. prompt.

Gene Gunder, St. Mary speedball artist will be on the mound for Irish when the game gets under way today. He will be opposed by Roscoe Rank of the Kappas. As far as pitching goes both men will be able to turn in a good job. Gunder may have a slight edge although Rank has staged a big comeback this season after a rather poor season in 1930. Rank has been turning in some good hill work this year and might outpitch Gunder today.

On paper the Irish appear to have the better of the argument. The Kappas are playing without the services of three of their regulars and this alone will hurt their play, even if the three new men allowed them by the commission were as good a players as the ones they lost—which they are not. The team work that comes as a result of playing together will be absent in the Kappas today unless they are different than most teams

Paul Rice will be umpire-in-chief of the officiating staff of today's game and all other World's series contests. He will be assisted by Norris Crissinger, Leo Keller and R. G. Smallwood.

Lincoln park is in better shape this season for the series than it has been for a long time. The diamond will be lined off today for the first game and the grounds generally put into good condition. The admission for the games will be the same as last season, one dime. The proceeds go into the general fund for the conducting of softball here during the summer season

The 149 national parks owned by the United States cover a total area of 160,000,000 acres, more than the area of the state of California.

Carey Wins Easily.

Don Donelson's semi-pro team of Carey pounded out a 13-3 victory over the Turf club of Columbus, a colored team, yesterday at Carey. Carey collected 15 hits while "Hook" Ferrier set Columbus down with five, fanning 15 men. Bucyrus plays at Carey next Sunday.

Caledonia Wins 4-3.

Caledonia's baseball team defeated Marseilles Sunday afternoon on the Marseilles diamond, 4-3. Score by innings of the game:

"ROLL Your OWN!"

Genuine "BULL" DURHAM Tobacco at 5¢ marked the entrance of my father, Percival S. Hill, into the Tobacco business. For 14 years he was President of The American Tobacco Company. The fine quality and popularity of "BULL" DURHAM were always subjects of great pride to him. Therefore, it is particularly gratifying to us to offer this important saving and service to the American public at this time.

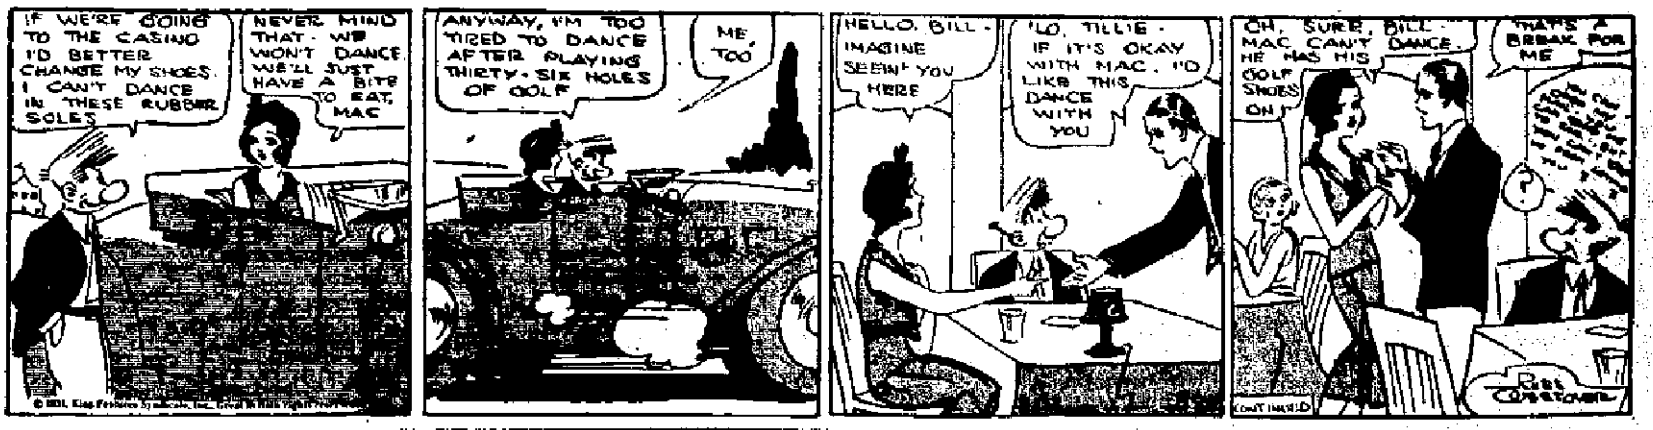
TILLIE THE TOILER — BY RUSS WESTOVER



IF WE'RE GOING TO THE CASINO I'D BETTER CHANGE MY SHOES I CAN'T DANCE IN THESE RUBBER SOLES
NEVER MIND THAT - WE WON'T DANCE WE'LL JUST HAVE A BITE TO EAT, MAC
ANYWAY, I'M TOO TIRED TO DANCE AFTER PLAYING THIRTY-SIX HOLES OF GOLF
ME TOO
HELLO, BILL - IMAGINE SEEIN' YOU HERE
'LO, TILLIE - IF IT'S OKAY WITH MAC, I'D LIKE THIS DANCE WITH YOU
OH, SURE, BILL - MAC CAN'T DANCE HE HAS HIS GOLF SHOES ON
THAT'S A BREAK FOR ME

THE GUMPS — BY SIDNEY SMITH

JUST AS BIM IS ALL PACKED FOR AUSTRALIA - AND IS GIVING OUT THE FINAL HAND SHAKES - THE PHONE RINGS
IT'S THE WIDOW ZANDER WHO WISHES TO SPEAK TO HIM -
HE HAS JUST TOLD ANDY THAT HE WOULDN'T MARRY HER IF SHE WAS THE LAST WOMAN ON EARTH - THAT HE WOULDN'T EVEN SPEAK TO HER IF HE MET HER ON THE STREET -
DON'T BE A SAP -
YES - THIS IS MR. GUMP - WHAT IS IT THAT YOU WANT ?
IF YOU TALK TO HER - YOU'RE DOING SOMETHING YOU'LL REGRET ALL YOUR LIFE - DON'T BE A BIG CHUMP - LAY OFF !
LISTEN! NIX! DON'T ANSWER HER - I'LL TELL HER YOU'VE GONE -
WHERE HAVE I BEEN KEEPING MYSELF - HUH - THAT'S FUNNY - A LOT YOU CARE -
SIDNEY SMITH
DON'T LET HER MAKE A FOOL OUT OF YOU -
NOBODY'S GOING TO MAKE A FOOL OUT OF ME - KEEP OUT OF THIS - WILL YOU ? I KNOW WHAT I'M DOING -

TOOTS AND CASPER — BY JIMMY MURPHY

I WISH YOU'D DO SOMETHING TO BUST UP THE ROMANCE BETWEEN YOUR COUSIN MABEL AND MRS. HOOFER'S SON DANNY! GOSH, TOOTS, IF THEY EVER GET MARRIED I'LL MAKE ME A RELATIVE OF COLONEL HOOFER'S AND I WON'T STAND FOR THAT!
THE WISEST THING I EVER DID IN MY WHOLE LIFE WAS TO HAVE MY FACE REMODELED! NO ONE WOULD EVER DREAM THAT I ONCE LOOKED LIKE THAT PHOTO! EVEN MY OWN HUSBAND FAILED TO RECOGNIZE ME AT FIRST!
I TRIED TO GET TOOTS AND CASPER ON THE PHONE, SOPHIE, BUT THEY ARE BOTH OUT! I LEFT WORD WITH MABEL THAT I'D PHONED
THIS IS MY CHANCE TO HAVE A TALK WITH MABEL AND FIND OUT IF SHE REALLY LOVES DANNY! MABEL WON'T RECOGNIZE ME, AND MAYBE SHE'LL TALK FREELY! SHE DOESN'T KNOW I HAD MY FACE MADE OVER!
I'M A FRIEND OF TOOTSIE'S!
SHE'S NOT IN, BUT I EXPECT HER BACK SHORTLY! WON'T YOU COME IN AND WAIT?

The Stars Say—
For Tuesday, Aug. 25
THE lunar transits for this day being of minor importance it is possible that affairs will assume a routine and monotonous aspect. Things will respond to personal initiative and applications. There is however an opening for annoyance or misunderstanding by means of letters, writings or irresponsible speech, which should be restrained.
Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a fairly routine year, with the affairs progressing according to the individual initiative, enterprise and sagacity.
In writings, letters or unguarded speech there may be found annoyance or misunderstanding, unless safeguards be employed. A child born on this day may be busy going, expedient and prone to let affairs shape themselves and to follow along in the easiest way.

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meat, Grain, Livestock

Today found markets quiet with prices resuming normal levels after the many specials of Saturday. Dealers are restocking with fresh supplies of both fruits and vegetables.

Peaches for canning were not so plentiful although dealers were looking for new supplies later in the day. The prices showed but little change from last week. Tennessee and Georgia peaches continue to supply the bulk of the demand at from $1.35 to $1.45 a bushel. Indiana watermelons are on the market although southern grown melons continue to furnish the larger part of the supply. Prices from 25 to 39 cents were being asked by dealers today. Home grown muskmelons continue plentiful and were selling today at from 15 to 39 cents. Cantaloupe was cheaper, dealers offering good quality fruit as low as two for 15 cents.

Sweet corn continues plentiful, Saturday found dealers offering three dozen for 25 cents, the lowest price in years, growers say. Tomatoes are also plentiful. Reports Saturday said some growers were offering good quality tomatoes at their farms at three bushels for $1. The markets were asking 20 cents for five pounds. Green beans are more plentiful and are selling at three pounds for 25 cents.

WHEAT SLUMPS IN LATE SALES

Price Favorable to Liverpool Firmness at Opening, but Slips Later.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Aug. 24 — Wheat showed a moderate response to firmness in Liverpool at the start today, but weakened immediately afterwards because of pronounced weakness of corn and oats. All deliveries of corn and oats sold at new low prices for the season with liquidation and stop-loss selling affecting the break. Wheat opened ⅛-¼ cent higher and reacted later. Corn started ⅛-¼ off and continued downgrade.

Wheat showed little buoyancy after the opening flurry and price fluctuated narrowly near the lowest quotations. The strength at the start was entirely in sympathy with firmness at Liverpool, where the overturn of the labor ministry was regarded as favorable news for the grain trade. Floods in China have caused widespread damage and the possibility of seeding the winter wheat crop over large areas were almost nil. European weather was more favorable, but clear, dry weather with strong winds was needed to keep newly harvested wheat from sprouting.

Corn dipped sharply at the start, all deliveries going below any prices quoted this season. Later the market rallied as the pressure was relieved by some buying and prices surged upward to slightly above the opening figures on deferred deliveries. September corn was down to 38⅞ cents a bushel a few minutes after trading started. Provisions sagged with hogs.

up as the New York Yankees made a slight gain by taking two games from the Chicago White Sox. The largest crowd that ever saw a ball game in Chicago, 52,000, turned out to see the Yanks win 10 to 4, and 9 to 1.

The defeat dropped the White Sox into a tie for last place with Detroit and left the Yanks only two games behind Washington despite the Senators' 6 to 5 triumph over the Tigers.

Cleveland's Indians likewise had a close call from a lower ranking team when the Boston Red Sox fought them to a standstill for eight innings only to go down 4 to 3, as Danny McFayden gave three hits and lost a duel with Sarge Connally.

The Cincinnati Reds finally were eliminated mathematically as well as actually from the National league pennant race when the St. Louis Cardinals took two games from the Boston Braves and placed themselves 24½ games ahead of the last place team with 32 games to go for the Cards and 33 for the Reds. Cincinnati, with the Phillies had an open date.

Hafey Clouts Two

An 18 hit attack, led by Chick Hafey, who batted in eight runs with two homers, a double and two singles, won the first game for St. Louis 16 to 1. The second clash was a mound duel between Paul Derringer and Ed Brandt which went 11 innings before Jim Bottomley dropped a home run into the bleachers to give St. Louis a 1 to 0 victory.

Brooklyn's Robins also won two games, staging two late rallies against Pittsburgh and winning a 4-4 count each time. Babe Ruhel's wallop and error gave the Robins two runs in the ninth to settle the first game while a ninth inning attack on Larry French won the second after Dazzy Vance had been knocked out.

The opening doubleheader of the New York-Chicago series was rained out.

Grandmother Spends 23 Days in Jail on Liquor Charge.

After having spent 23 days in jail on the charge of possessing intoxicating liquor, Mrs Flora Lamb, 80-year-old grandmother was released Saturday night when relatives paid the balance of the fine of $200 assessed by Municipal Judge W R Martin.

Believing the aged woman was assuming the ownership of a quantity of beer found in her home by the police, for the purpose of getting off with a lighter fine, Municipal Judge Martin assessed a fine heavier than is usually assessed on the first offense. Unable to pay she was taken to the county jail where she remained until Saturday night.

FORMER LOCAL MAN VICTIM OF BANDITS

J. L. Foraker Among Passengers on Bus Held Up Near Joplin, Mo.

J. L. Foraker, formerly of Marion, and who is now visiting relatives here on a vacation, experienced his first vacation thrill Saturday morning when the bus bringing him from Dallas, Tex., was held up near Joplin, Mo. More than $5 in money, a watch, pen and other valuables were taken from Foraker. He saved a package of letters by dropping them on the floor of the bus.

Foraker was one of 18 passengers on the bus. The men stopped the bus by blocking hte road with an automobile. Firing pistols to awaken the passengers, they then lined up the occupants and searched them. The loss was estimated at $50.

Four years ago, Foraker was employed with the Warner & Edwards Co. He is planning to relocate here. He is now visiting Mrs. George Johnson, a sister, at 749 south Prospect street.

The "Smiths" Are Going on a Vacation After All

A SHORT, SHORT STORY
(Reading Time 33 Seconds)

Along in April the Smith's dismissed vacation from their minds.

This, they agreed, was not time for fun . . . but for fretting. And so Papa Smith, Mamma Smith and all the little Smiths settled down to a nice summer of worry.

Since then, Mrs. Smith has talked with the Browns, who are just leaving. And the Joneses who are just back.

Mr. Smith has been reading that the prices on fares, food and finery are the lowest in 15 years.

So the Smiths have called a moratorium on gloom . . . They're going to be gone over Labor Day . . . and Mrs. Smith has just called the milk man and the paper boy.

P. S.—Mr. Smith is just getting a new outfit at Kleinmaier's while this is being written.

Square this with what you hear

. . . what you read
. . . what you believe

NOWADAYS you read and hear every kind of thing about cigarettes. But when you try to square some of it with your own common-sense and experience, a lot of it just doesn't "square"!

What smokers want to know about a cigarette is "How good is it?"

And when it comes to that, cigarettes are just as good and just as pure as the materials from which they're made.

In making Chesterfield, we use only riper, milder, sweeter-tasting tobaccos—the best that money can buy—and pure cigarette paper—the purest that can be made. Our chemists rigidly test for cleanliness and purity all materials used in the manufacture of Chesterfield. In our factories even the air is washed, and changed every 4½ minutes.

Everything that goes into Chesterfield is the best that money can buy or that science knows about.

"Good . . . they've got to be good," we say about CHESTERFIELD—and we mean it! And that's something you can square with everything you've ever read, or heard—or know—about this good cigarette!

TO MAKE LICENSE CHANGE NEXT MONTH

Auditor Delays Issuing New Cigaret Certificates Until After Tax Settlement.

Cigaret retailers under the impression that they must immediately obtain new cigaret licenses under provisions of the new license law enacted this year by the legislature need not worry about new licenses until notified by County Auditor Earl E. Thomas, the auditor said today.

The license obtained a few weeks ago under the old law will entitle retailers and wholesalers as well to sell cigarets until the county auditor formally issues the new licenses, which probably will be done in September, Auditor Thomas said.

The auditor made this announcement after several retailers had called his office, asking about the new licenses. Now busy checking off delinquent taxes and preparing for the semi-annual distribution, Auditor Thomas said no effort will be made to replace the old licenses with new for several weeks.

The Stars Say—

For Sunday, Aug. 23

SUNDAY'S horoscope emphasizes things of the spirit, the mystical, marvelous, irregular and unusual, according to the lunar trips to Neptune, dominating the day's affairs. Affairs secret, subtle and singular may intrigue, but with possible friction in the personal relation or contacts.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of unusual, singular or intriguing events and experiences. Benefits may accrue through those as with negotiations with secret bodies, mergers, rings, or other undercurrent associations. New undertakings are under encouraging away. A child born on this day may be inclined to secret, subtle and curious adventures, research and experiences, which may redound to its profit and advancement if not to its personal happiness.

For Monday, Aug. 24

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is not a very happy or propitious one, although it holds signs of great activity and commotion. There are signs of turmoil and turbulance, sudden and ill-advised moves and disruptions, danger of employment agitations, and many stubborn obstructions and delays to be encountered. The most optimistic configurations show an exceedingly alert and disconcerning mind which may be able to devise ways and means to offset these perils, but with prudence and wariness as well as wisdom.

Those whose birthday it is may be visited by a year calling for all their wisdom, sagacity and prudence to surmount stubborn obstacles, disruptive situations, disputes, quarrels, violence and turbulance. The mind will be found excellently stimulated and enlightened to cope with this perilous state of affairs. A child born on this day should be versatile, clever, keen, quick and shrewd, qualities needed to cope with its many obstacles in life.

POLICE GIVE OUT 30 TRAFFIC TAGS

Judge Assesses Fines Totaling $30 During Week.

Thirty tags for traffic violations were given out by police last week, according to the traffic docket in municipal court.

Of this number 10 were for overtime parking, three for driving with improper lights, two for crashing the red lights, one of which was excused, two for double parking, one for parking in front of a theater and one for parking in a zone restricted to police cars.

Fines totaling $20 were assessed by Municipal Judge W. R. Martin, all of which paid.

COURT NEWS

Wife Asks Divorce

Extreme cruelty and insane jealousy are charged in the divorce petition of Vivian C. Curren against William R. Curren, filed in common pleas court this morning. A divorce decree, custody of their two children and temporary and permanent alimony are asked by Mrs. Curren, who states her husband's jealous rage has made it impossible for her to live with him.

They were married June 20, 1917, in Morrow county, the petition sets forth. The law firm of Mouser, Young, Mouser & Wiant represents Mrs. Curren.

Foreclosure Asked

Foreclosure of a mortgage on a Marion lot and judgment for $4,838.71 are asked in a petition filed in common pleas court this morning by Enoch Rogers against Charles H. Fletcher and others. The law firm of Clark & Arter represents Rogers.

Granted License

Clarence Alven Myers, a Marion steel worker, and Marjorie Anna Jones of Marion were granted a marriage license by Probate Judge Oscar Gast.

Appeal Lost

Addie E. Clark lost her appeal to the common pleas court from a ruling of state industrial commission when Judge George B. Scofield affirmed action of the commission, denying her right to participate in workmen's compensation insurance.

Mrs. Clark sought insurance for the death of her husband, who was injured across the chest while working at the Marion Steam Shovel Co. Testimony disclosed that he returned to work after the accident, and later had several teeth extracted. He died a short time later. The law firm of Carhart & Warner represented Mrs. Clark.

Case Settled

Action of Otto C. Schlientz against Gethary Shaffstall for damages and money only has been settled and dismissed in common pleas court at the costs of the defendant.

Approves Salary

An entry allowing payment of $1,000 to H. M. Wheeler for his services as receiver of the Gardner Tap & Die Co. in the receivership action of the Marion National bank against the company was approved by Judge George B. Scofield in common pleas court.

Judgment Granted

Judgment for $2,805.27 and the right to foreclose a mortgage if the amount is not paid within three days was granted the Marion Building, Savings & Loan Co. in its foreclosure action against Margaret A. Jones and others by Judge George B. Scofield.

Entries Made

Journal entries determining the priority of liens held by defendants in the action of the Ellsworth-Haffner Co. against Edward A. Miller and others, and declaring judgments for amounts totalling $6,108.96 were made by Judge George B. Scofield.

Executor Named

P. N. Neidig has been appointed and qualified as executor of the estate of Anna M. Neidig by Probate Judge Oscar Gast.

PRIMARY PAYROLL OF $2,100 READY

A number of presiding judges, judges and clerks employed in the August primaries have not yet obtained compensation for their work, County Treasurer Bert J. Shelton said today. The primary payroll is now ready awaiting application of the election officials at the treasurer's office.

The primary payroll amounts to $2,100 this year, the presiding judge in each precinct getting $10 for his work, the judges and clerks getting $8 each. Six persons served at each precinct.

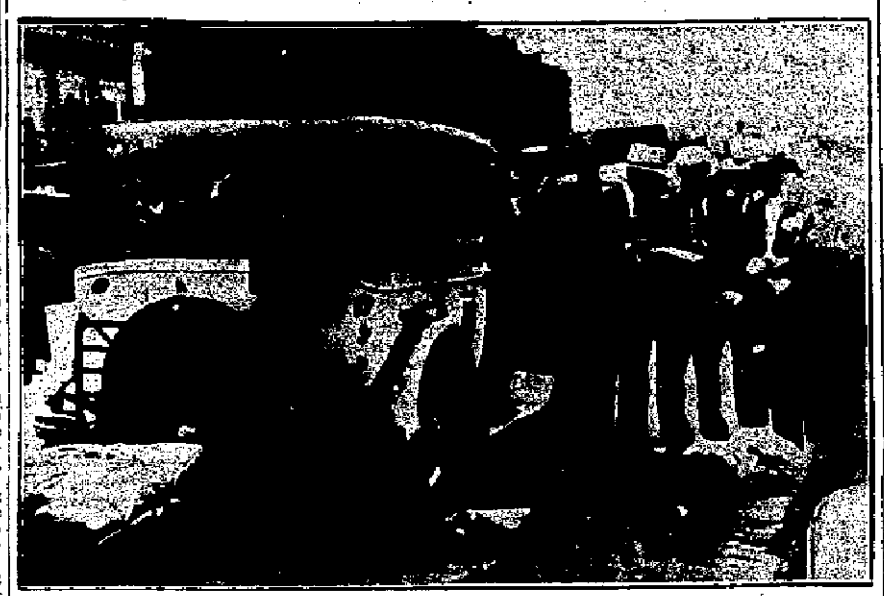
BRINGS DEATH TO SIX IN BATTLE



This Associated Press telephoto shows the bullet-riddled taxicab in which two payroll robbers and the driver were killed by police after a 15-mile running gun fight through New York streets. Two policemen and a four-year-old girl were fatally wounded and 12 other persons were injured during the hour and a half battle.

LINDBERGHS IN NEMURO TODAY

Flying Couple Reach City After Negotiating Treacherous Flight.

FOUR TIMES FORCED DOWN

Gets Riotous Greetings from Residents; Plane Shows Buffeting.

By The Associated Press

NEMURO, Japan, Aug. 24—Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh finally reached Nemuro today after having spent five days and made four forced landings in negotiating the 897 miles from Petropavlovsk, Kamchatka, via the foggy Kurile island route.

Leaving Lake Amoro, Kunashiri island, 50 miles north of here, where they were forced to descend yesterday, at 7:23 a. m. (5:23 p. m. Sunday, Marion time), the Lindberghs landed here at 7:51 a. m. (3:51 p. m. Marion time.)

Taken Ashore

The fliers were hurried ashore in a launch, escorted by city officials. They raised their hands in acknowledgment of the tremendous ovation. Mrs. Lindbergh bowed and smiled as hundreds of school children waved Japanese and American flags and chorused a welcome.

The colonel smiled and said: "We are a bit late."

Hurried to their hotel for a moment's rest, the Lindberghs were soon forced to come to their balcony and acknolwedge the tribute of immense throngs that gathered in the adjacent streets. Again the colonel spoke.

"We are glad to be in Nemuro," he said. "Thank you, thank you."

The Lindberghs then withdrew to their rooms where hot baths had been prepared in the rat-like Japanese tubs.

Colonel Lindbergh said the worst experiences of the much interrupted flight from Petropavlovsk were the perplexing fog they encountered while trying to land here Sunday, forcing them back to Amoro bay, and the transfer of the plane from Ketoi island, in the central Kuriles, to Muroton bay, Shimushiru island, at the end of a tow line attached to a Japanese government steamer.

The transfer effected in choppy seas, required several hours.

Tells of Anxiety

"It was an exciting time," he said. "The seas caused a strain in the tow line, which, in fact, broke several times, causing us much anxiety. It was a great relief to arrive at Muroton bay after the 18-mile tow."

The monoplane showed the effects of the buffeting it received while it lay off Ketoi island and during the tow to Muroton bay. A metal bar connecting the pontoons was badly bent and was reinforced temporarily with a two-inch piece of wood, wired onto the connection.

When the couple will take off for the Kasumigaura naval base, near Tokyo, the official finish of their flight, was not immediately learned. However, they probably will leave early Tuesday.

On Shooting Rampage.

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 24—After wounding his 13-year-old daughter, shooting his wife to death and terrorizing an entire neighborhood for half an hour, John Novello, 39, today had shot and killed himself while police battered at the front door of his home.

Ford Employes Will Take Up Shovel and Hoe

IRON MOUNTAIN, Mich., Aug. 24—An edict that family men employed by the Ford Motor Co. will have to go in for gardening or give up their jobs, has been issued by Henry Ford, Detroit automobile manufacturer.

He announced yesterday that his "no garden, no job" plans would be put into effect next year as a means of alleviating temporary business depression, and expressed the belief that if they proved successful other companies throughout the country would take similar steps.

"When the people of our country learn to help themselves they will be benefitted far greater than they would be by unemployment insurance as is being suggested in congress," Ford said. "If our agricultural plans are adopted throughout the country, such a thing as the dole system need never be thought of."

Family men who have no available space for gardening Ford said, would be supplied with land by the company, which would provide expert advice for those not familiar with garden work. He added that an investigation would be started soon to determine which of his employes needed instruction.

"Next year every man with a family who is employed at the plant will be required to have a garden of sufficient size to supply his family with at least a part of his winter's vegetables or he will find himself without a job," Ford said.

Ford made his announcement following a tour of inspection. He said he had given considerable study to the problem and had come to the conclusion that there was no use trying to help men who did not try to help themselves by raising foodstuffs.

CUBA PREPARES FOR NEW REBEL UPRISING

Insurgents Stage Fresh Outbreak, Resulting in Three Fatalities

HAVANA, Aug. 24—Fresh outbreaks in the eastern province of Cuba, last night caused the government today to hurry additional troops into Oriente in the belief that rebels concentrated at a number of strategic points might attempt a surprise maneuver.

Three insurgents were killed and a number wounded and taken prisoners when one of the rebel groups was surprised. A considerable number of arms, a quantity of ammunition and other war material was seized, three bombs exploded here but the damage was slight.

The government issued a statement declaring its confidence in an immediate and successful determination of the uprising a few hours before the skirmishing was resumed. President Machado, back from Santa Clara since Saturday, was to confer with army heads in Oriente by telephone today.

The president had previously declared the revolt ended and proclaimed a tendency toward leniency in the treatment of prisoners including General Mario G. Menocal, former president, and Col. Carlos Mendieta.

Last night's encounter took place at the Canaei ranch near Cauey. Lieut. Acosta in command of a small detachment of troops surprised a group of 30 rebels and opened fire upon them. Three fell dead and several were wounded.

One hundred and twenty-three hand grenades were seized along with a number of rifles, pistols and ammunition.

ANOTHER PAPER PLANT BOMBED

News Building Made Target of Second Attack in 48 Hours.

JOURNAL BOMBED FRIDAY

Rewards of $10,000 Posted by Brush-Moore Newspapers for Arrest.

By Brush-Moore Leased Wire

MANSFIELD, O., Aug. 24—Plans to wreck the plant of the Mansfield News failed Sunday night when a fire bomb, set in a basement stairway, exploded with slight damage. This attempt followed less than 48 hours after the hurling of an explosive bomb in the Mansfield Journal plant.

Brush-Moore Newspapers, Inc., publishers of the News, today posted a $5,000 reward for the arrest and conviction of the person or persons who placed the fire bomb at the News plant.

Offer Big Reward

This is an addition to a reward of $5,000 offered by Brush-Moore Newspapers for the arrest of the person or persons who bombed the Journal plant. The Journal previously offered a reward of $500 for the discovery and conviction of those responsible for bombing its plant.

At approximately 3:30 p. m. Sunday a dull explosive sound was heard by four persons in the News building. This noise was followed immediately by dense sulphur smoke which filled the building and spread for a distance of several blocks.

Firemen under the direction of Chief Frank E. May climbed into the News building by aerial ladder through a third-floor window. Equipped with gas masks firemen made their way down three flights of stairs to the basement, where a smoldering fire bomb quickly was extinguished.

The bomb, composed chiefly of sulphur, with a powder fuse, was the size of a paving brick. The blazing sulphur had burned into the door in a hallway and crept under a second door to a basement barbershop where several towels in a shower bath room were ignited. Part of the bomb had burned when located by firemen, but a considerable portion remained in ash form. Police and chemists are examining it today.

At the time of the explosion Harry M. Cochran and H. C. Ditwiler were working in the editorial

MACDONALD TO HEAD ENGLISH CABINET

King Asks Prime Minister To Form New Coalition Government Today.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Aug. 24—J. Ramsay MacDonald's Labor government resigned today in the face of the national financial crisis and Mr. MacDonald was asked by the King to form a temporary national non-party government whose first duty will be to balance the budget.

It will include Conservatives and Liberals. Stanley Baldwin, Conservative leader, and Liberals who have taken over active management of their party during the illness of David Lloyd George agreed at Buckingham palace in the presence of the King to participate in a cabinet in which Mr. Baldwin will serve under Mr. MacDonald.

His Big Task

This arrangement has its precedent in the coalition government of 1916, formed to create national unity in waging the war.

The new cabinet also has a war of sorts on its hands. Its campaign will be to restore Great Britain's threatened credit in the world of international finance.

Balancing the budget will be the one task of the national government and it is not expected to last more than a few months during which economy bills will be rushed through the house of commons. There probably will be a special session of parliament, and after the nation's finances are straightened out there will doubtless be a general election and the political situation will be clarified.

Mr. MacDonald's government came into office on June 9, 1929, and for nearly two and one-half years struggled with national and world problems whose gravity was increased by the general economic depression.

The present crisis developed two weeks ago with the reports by the government economy committee calling attention to the urgent necessity of balancing the budget in the face of a threatened deficit of $600,000,000.

For two weeks the cabinet has been in emergency session debating measures which would wipe off that deficit, but opposition to measures which is evolved culminated in Mr. MacDonald's resignation.

The Trades Union congress, backbone of the Labor government, interposed objections and there developed a split in the cabinet.

In the new government, which probably will not hold office beyond next Jan. 1, the ministers of the retiring cabinet who supported the prime minister probably will have portfolios.

Those who opposed him may fight the program of the national government in parliament, but from present indications they are not likely to have much change of success.

Mr. MacDonald's plan is to form a small national cabinet of 12 or 14 ministers instead of the usual 20. The retiring Labor cabinet had 21 members. The smaller group will be more wieldly for quick action.

"I shall be in the new government," said J. H. Thomas, secretary for dominions, as he left Mr. MacDonald's office.

Philip Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer, also seemed certain to remain, and there will probably be half a dozen others as a Labor bloc in the emergency cabinet.

At least nine members of the retiring cabinet were resolutely opposed to some of the economy measures, and these probably will have no place in the national government.

Mr. MacDonald was scheduled to visit the King again this afternoon and his majesty was also to receive leaders of the opposition.

David Lloyd George, the Liberal leader who recently underwent a major operation, received the news of the labor government's fall at his home.

"I'm not surprised," was his laconic comment.

Mr. Lloyd George still holds his strategic political position—he has held the balance of power since the labor government took office—and if he wants to he can command a leading place in the national government.

If the emergency cabinet is to be of short duration, however, he may not recover sufficiently from his illness in time to plunge into the hot parliamentary fight which is certain to occur. In this event such outstanding Liberals as Sir Herbert Samuel and Sir Donald MacLean are likely to replace him in the cabinet.

KENTON MAN NAMED SECRETARY TO WHITE

Carl W. Smith Gets Post of A. C. Crouse, Effective on Sept. 1.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 24—Appointment of Carl W. Smith of Kenton as his secretary effective Sept. 1, was announced today by Governor George White.

Smith will succeed A. C. Crouse of Cincinnati, who resigned. Crouse took office when Governor White was sworn in, with the understanding that he would serve while the legislature was in session. He will resume his old duties as chief probation officer of the court of domestic relations at Cincinnati.

While serving as postmaster at Kenton, an appointee of President Wilson, Smith took a leave of absence and enlisted in the army as a private during the World war. He resumed his postmastership at the close of hostilities, and served in the position for eight years.

Three years ago Smith was Democratic candidate for secretary of state, and last year he was a candidate for congress in the eighth district. He has been active in state American Legion work for years.

TRIO LOOTS SAFE OF MOOSE LODGE

Locate Robbers Bind Janitor, Two Others, While Doing Work.

By The Associated Press

LORAIN, O., Aug. 24—Three masked robbers early today looted a safe in the club of the Loyal Order of Moose here and escaped with $1,500 after trussing two national officers of the order and the lodge janitor.

The trio was attacking the safe with sledge hammers when surprised by Charles F. Byrd, janitor. Tying him, they proceeded upstairs to a room occupied by Lewis R. Jones, supervisor of the order and Max Jeski of Chicago, supreme lodge auditor. Trussing the pair with strips torn from bed sheets, they completed burglarizing the safe and fled.

Chinese Charge Flood to Revengeful River Dragon

BY WELFORD LING

United Press Staff Correspondent

HANKOW, China, Aug. 24 — Thousands of Chinese who believed they had angered the dragon god of the Yangtze avenged death in the yellow waters of the river or from cholera with Oriental stoicism today.

Firm in their belief that the dragon god intended to unleash the power of the mighty stream until it had swept over Hankow, Wuchang, and Hanyang, and washed the cities to the altar of sacrifice, the Chinese looked serenely at rescue parties and declined to be removed to safety.

The river dragon temple was demolished recently. So the river dragon must have revenge. And the refugees waited, on roof tops, on makeshift rafts, some on tops of coffins until the flood had swept them from their resting place. A week ago they fought for scraps of food. Today they awaited death.

Famine and disease followed the flood and took up the trail of death where the river dragon had been merciful. White men and Chinese officials estimated that the death toll would reach 2,000,000 before Christmas. The scourge of destitute already had reached millions.

Deacons and Elders Ordained; Bishop Dunlap Gives Sermon at Services.

The ninety-fourth annual Ohio Evangelical conference closed here yesterday. Four ministers were ordained and pastors assigned for the coming year at the closing session.

No changes were made in the pastors of the local Evangelical churches. E. Hadebaugh was named pastor of Calvary. Irvin Kauffman as pastor of Greenwood and H. E. Williamson as pastor of Oakland. H. H. Maxwell, who has been serving as pastor of the Salem-Grace church since the transfer of Roy Dalsinger to Mansfield, was given the official appointment. Only 13 changes were made in the conference.

Calvary church, the scene of the conference last week, was crowded to capacity yesterday afternoon for the ordination of four ministers as deacons and six as elders and the announcement of the assignments. More than 1,000 persons, including pastors, layman delegates and friends of the ministers to be ordained, attended the morning and afternoon sessions.

Conducts Services

The impressive ordination services were conducted by Bishop J. F. Dunlap of Cleveland, assisted by the following presiding elders: W. H. McLaughlin of the Canton district, W. H. Schuster of the Cleveland district, E. A. Sain of the Columbus district and D. L. Caldwell of the Toledo district.

H. J. Dute, whose charge was not announced, H. M. Maurer of Bluffield, E. T. Shepherd of Bluffield and W. B. Smith of East Liberty were ordained as deacons and H. G. Deeds of Polk, R. A. Krisher of Lancaster, O. V. Latta of Niles, A. E. McVey of Republic, E. A. Rothgab of Wagram charge and W. J. Shawk of Independence were ordained as elders.

Close Years Sermon

Heroism, strength and courage, Bishop Dunlap told members of the ordination class at the morning service, are necessary if they keep the faith. "If any man needs to be a hero, God knows it is the minister," the bishop said.

The courage to take a stand for the right in face of opposition and the strength to maintain that stand are also necessary if, in the years to come, the members of the classes will be able to look back over their lives and say, "I have kept the faith, I have made a good fight, I have kept a straight course," Dunlap said.

Bishop Dunlap said form meant nothing, but to talk everything and urged that each of those ordained arm himself with the truth and, with eyes open to the true situation, march on steadily, obediently and unflinchingly.

Dr. William L. Bellman of Cleveland, executive secretary and treasurer of the general missionary society who took as the subject of his address "The Unfinished Task —the Unfinding Christ," was the speaker at the meeting of Ohio Conference Missionary society held as a part of the afternoon program. The meeting was presided over by Rev. R. W. Sager of Bucyrus.

While the reading of the appointments brought the conference to a close, many of the visitors remained

FRIENDS SEEK CASH FOR LYNCH RANSOM

Kidnapers Hold Chicago Gambler; Threaten Deaths If $250,000 Not Paid.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Aug. 24—Alarmed by threatening telephone calls, friends of John J. "Jack" Lynch, handbook operator and race track stockholder, said today they were trying to raise a purse by which to bring about his release from kidnapers.

The part owner of Arlington park race track and share-holder in the General News bureau which supplies racing information throughout the country, has been held by kidnapers since Thursday, his friends said, for $250,000 ransom.

Marty Guilfoyle, for years a leading gambler and handbook operator, and an associate of Lynch, was reported to be raising $50,000 in hopes of effecting a compromise. The kidnapers, however, were quoted by the Herald and Examiner as saying they want $250,000 or "we'll fill Lynch full of lead."

Several hours after Lynch disappeared, a telephone call was received by his wife. She was told that he had been kidnaped and held for $250,000.

Messages were received Saturday to have the money ready by today or "you'll get him back—dead."

The strain has caused the complete collapse of Mrs. Lynch.

Up to a year and a half ago, Lynch operated what was supposed to be one of the largest string of handbooks in the country. He collected 30 per cent of the earnings of more than 30 places.

When he ran amuck with rival bookmakers, he turned his string over to Jimmy McCarthy, a friend, and retired from the active operation.

Lynch, who is about 50, has been in ill health for some time.

The gambler has made and lost several large fortunes. The present state of his finances was unknown by his friends.

CITY PLANS CRIME DRIVE

Latest Outrage Follows Closely on Bandit Warfare of Friday.

By United Press

NEW YORK, Aug. 24—Gangsters reenacted Chicago's Valentine day massacre in miniature last night in a blazing, deadly defy to New York's crime-stricken citizens mobilizing for a war on crime.

Their grisly sense of humor led them to back three young men against a wall opposite a slaughter house in a deserted section of Brooklyn, where the victims faced a firing squad of four.

One was killed. The other two may die. Seven died in the Chicago massacre.

The three Brooklyn victims stepped from a gangster sedan in the pitch black stench of the slaughter house district, their faces reflecting their fear of the death they faced, their hands held high in the air.

Four men stepped from the waiting automobile to the curb; a fifth remained at the wheel.

Guns Blaze

There was just one moment of deadly silence, broken only by the easy idling of the motor of the car at the curb.

Then guns blazed.

They hinted defiance of a city aroused by the bandit outrage of last Friday night when six were killed, and a dozen were wounded during the deadly running barrage; they mocked a federal and local drive against crime, intended to be the greatest in history.

Three men against the wall toppled to the ground at the first burst.

The blazing guns continued to spit their lead until 30 bullets had been embedded in human beings or the wall behind them.

The four leaped into their automobile and speeded away.

One of the three crumpled figures screamed, stumbled to his feet and staggered down the street. A night watchman, on his rounds found him. He called police.

Of the other two limp figures, one was dead, the second suffering wounds probably fatal.

No Weapons

The slain man was identified as Anthony Ferrari, 25, of Brooklyn. His companions were identified as Murray Leonardi, 21, of Brooklyn, and Angelo Currano, 22, of Brooklyn. Both are in critical condition.

No weapons were found on the victims, but police said Ferrari and Leonardi had served terms in Elmira reformatory.

Police got their story of what happened from Leonardi, who refused to give the names of their assailants.

The victims had been kidnaped from in front of a dance hall. Ferrari was hustled into the sedan first. The others, startled, stood amazed, then they too were bundled in.

Once the car stopped at a crossing where a traffic watchman was on duty. The kidnaped men were afraid to cry out for help. A moment and the lights changed. They were off. Their last chance for freedom gone.

The attempted duplication of Chicago's St. Valentine day massacre broke on a city organizing a fight on crime, and salvaging the broken hearts, broken hopes and broken families tossed up as wreckage in the back wash of Friday's crime wave.

A mass meeting expected to pack facilities of Central park was organized for tonight.

rooms on the third floor. Edwin Sturges, who conducts the Sturges Press in a section of the second floor, was in his office. Lee Gorrell was at work in the News advertising department on the first floor.

Crowd Gathers

As the blue-white smoke curled from the windows a large crowd gathered and within a few moments firemen worked with difficulty. Traffic was tied up at the News corner for almost an hour by fire lines.

News traveled rapidly that a second lawless attack had been made on a Mansfield newspaper. Many persons associated the fire bomb explosion at the News with the previous bombing but no evidence has been turned up either to disprove or establish this theory.

"The explosion at our building is as complete a mystery to us as the bombing at the Journal," said James C. Woods, general manager of the News. "We would give a lot to find out about either one or both. We do not consider this attack under any circumstances a reprisal for our editorial stand against crime. The News, like all newspapers, defends law and opposes crime as routine public duty and common journalistic ethics.

"The deep significance of these two attacks can not be explained as the retaliation of a criminal element but there can be no doubt both were made with criminal intent by persons unknown and whose motives are likewise unknown. We urged all citizens with any information likely to be of assistance in uncovering this mystery to communicate with Police Chief Ralph A. Schad."

The mysteriousness of the attacks is made all the more baffling by the lack of evidence. The fire bomb was wrapped in heavy brown paper containing a large quanity of sulphur held together by a narrow ribbon string such as used in any store for wrapping packages. A twisted cloth fuse was attached.

Police are continuing their investigation of the Journal bombing now, linking the two, seek clews of the News fire bomb explosion.

The attempt made to bring damage to the News is the fourth which has been made to injure Mansfield newspapers and newspaper owners within a period of a little more than two years.

Twice in a comparatively short period of time, attacks were made on R. C. Hoiles, former owner and publisher of the News. Once his home was considerably damaged by a bomb under a window. At another time several sticks of dynamite were wired in Mr. Hoiles' automobile while it was parked in the grounds of the Westbrook country club. The dynamite was discovered before it became ignited.

ment fears as much as Satan is supposed to fear holy water

It seemed all right to give forty millions to one street car company during the war, all right to give millions of acres of land to railroads for developing the country. It is all right to subsidize a shipping board with many millions.

But when you talk of giving fifteen or twenty dollars a week, in real cash, to families whose heads are unemployed, our financial system shivers like an elephant with pneumonia.

Why? The answer is simple. Big taxpayers are afraid they will have to supply money for the dole, and big taxpayers are the government.

Something worse might happen to them if they let things drift and try to meet the temporary breakdown of their own industrial system with the help of charity organization and inadequate public appeals

Ton-Gee Remedy Worth Weight in Purest Gold

Mr. Robbins of Elm St. Praises This Medicine; Had Rheumatism and Deranged Organs

Mr. W. J. Robbins of 238 Elm-st., Marion, is another of the many widely-known and substantial residents of the vicinity who are publicly indorsing this great doctor's prescription of Nature's finest medicines, known as Ton-Gee, which is now being introduced to crowds daily here in this city by the Stump and Sams drug store. Following is Mr. Robbins' statement about Tongee, which is a TRUTHFUL and ACCURATE account and can be substantiated by him at any time

MR. W. J. ROBBINS

"I had gotten to be a great victim of bowel and kidney trouble and rheumatism," said Mr. Robbins. "I had been having constipation for years, and it surely grew into a terrible case of bowel affliction. I would go for 3 or 4 days without a bowel movement. My kidneys were deranged and kept me in misery with pains in my back and they also got me up 7 to 8 times every night. I also got the rheumatism in my elbows, shoulders and knees and my limbs ached and hurt so bad that I would have to get up out of bed at night and rub myself to ease the suffering.

"So you see that I was in a SERIOUS state of health if anybody ever was, and I surely was a discouraged person, as I had tried everything and had never gotten any benefit out of any of them. I kept reading about Ton-Gee and thought it was like all the others I tried, but one day I saw a friend and as I know he had been in mighty poor health but there he was looking fine and when I mentioned it to him he said that Ton-Gee was what had done it for him and he went on and told me a story that sounded almost like magic to me in the way he had recovered by taking this great medicine. So I went down to the drug store immediately and got two bottles and I will say that from the first dose I knew that it was what I had always needed and I am now willing to make the public statement that I honestly believe this to be the greatest medicine EVER PRODUCED. It has cleared up my bowel trouble and I don't have to get up at night with my kidneys, and it has worked all the rheumatism out of my system. It's the greatest blessing that ever came to this part of the country. Ton-Gee is worth its WEIGHT in GOLD to the suffering and I want to publicly recommend it to all poor suffering people everywhere."

Lima Girl Becomes Bride of Patrick C. English of Marion

AFTER Sept. 20, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick C. English whose marriage was a social event of Saturday in Lima, will be at home at 201 Bellefontine avenue. They are on a wedding trip through the east and north.

Mrs. English before her wedding was Miss Helen Holleran, daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Holleran of south Main street in Lima. Mr. English is the son of Mrs. Catherine English of 172 west Columbia street.

Their nuptial high mass was celebrated Saturday morning at 9:45 o'clock in St. John's Catholic church by Rev. Fr. Leonard Plumanns, pastor.

Arranged with the branches of oak leaves to give a fall touch to the late summer wedding, gladioli in yellow and peach decorated the main altar. The side altars were set with the tall candelabra holding white tapers, and banked with palms.

Mrs. Holleran gave her daughter in marriage. The bride was in a gown of eggshell satin, fashioned on Princess lines with long sleeves, and a floor-length circular skirt extending into a long train. Her long, full veil of tulle was cap shape, held at each side with clusters of lilies of the valley. Eggshell satin slippers and an arm bouquet of deep cream shade Johanna Hill roses and lilies of the valley, tied with eggshell satin ribbons, completed the lovely bridal ensemble. She wore a lavalier of platinum and diamonds, a gift of the bridegroom, and a pearl rosary, the gift of her sister, Sister Elsie.

Miss Marie Simmons played a violin solo, "Ave Maria" with Miss Agnes DeCurtins at the organ, preceding the ceremony. Following the exchange of vows, Max Falk Jr sang "Ave Maria."

Mrs. Henry Tarr, Miss Mary Toomey, and little Misses Rosemary Higgins, Helen Gertrude Mihlbaugh, Mary Helen Mihlbaugh and Patricia Ann Mouser, Billy Connell Tarr, Al St. Germaine of Marion, Julius Callahan and Appellate Judge Charles L. Justice were in the wedding party.

Mrs. Tarr, matron of honor, wore a Colonial gown of ruffled peach taffeta, a blue braid hat trimmed with peach velvet and blue moire slippers and gloves. Her bouquet was of pompom chrysanthemums in peach shade, and blue delphiniums, tied with blue satin ribbons.

Cornflower blue crepe fashioned the gown worn by Miss Toomey, the maid of honor. The gown was made with a cowl neckline, long sleeves and a long, circular skirt. A blue maline turban, blue crepe slippers and gloves in eggshell shade, completed her costume.

The flower girls were taffeta frocks of quaint Empire style, the high waistlines marked with black velvet ribbons and streamers. Their taffeta hats and satin slippers matched their dresses. Miss Higgins wore green, Miss Helen Gertrude Mihlbaugh was in yellow, Miss Mary Helen Mihlbaugh was in pink and Miss Mouser wore peach. Their bouquets were Colonial nosegays in lace holders.

Billy Tarr, the ring bearer, wore a suit of black velvet with white satin collar and cuffs.

Mr. St. Germaine was best man, and Mr. Callahan and Judge Justice were ushers.

Mrs. Holleran was in gold lace over blue, with a shoulder corsage of Pernet roses and valley lilies.

The reception and breakfast at Hotel Norval, following the ceremony, was an elaborate social occasion. The bridal party, with Mrs. Holleran and Mrs. English, received in the lounge, against a background of gladioli and fall asters in tall, wrought-iron vases. The color note of the reception and breakfast was green and white. Over the archway into the lounge were clusters of flowers.

The large wedding cake was the center piece for the bride's table, set in H shape. Chrysanthemums and asters in brilliant colors, surrounded the cake. Tall green tapers in silver holders and silver vases of flowers added to the attractiveness of the table. Silver vases of asters and gladioli centered the small tables.

For traveling, Mrs. English wore a suit of Royal blue crepe with accessories in the same shade.

Mrs. English is a graduate of St. John's High school of Lima and has been employed with the White Mountain Creamery Co. Mr. English was graduated from St. Mary's High school here and is head of the English Insurance Co. at 122½ south Main street.

Marion guests at the wedding breakfast were Mrs. Catherine English, T. J. English, Miss Winifred English, Congressman and Mrs. Grant Mouser Jr., Al St. Germaine, M. J. English, Mrs. Martha Thomas, Mrs. Marguerite Lawler, Mrs. Mary Ryan, Miss Anna Fahey, Louis Myers, Mrs. Earl Johnson, Mrs. R. McKibben, T. L. Fahey, David Ashton, George Frank, J. B. Bolander, Rev. Fr. William J. Spickerman, pastor of St. Mary's Catholic church, Rev. Fr. Henry B. Kriege, assistant pastor, and L. Hagen.

Other out-of-town guests were Rev. Fr. John Kelly of LaRue, B. Armstrong of Fort Wayne, Ind., Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Huemke of New Bremen, Rev. Fr. F. H. Schumacher and Mr. and Mrs. Leo Gelhaus of Kenton, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Dwyer of Toledo, Patrick Kelly of Cleveland, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Snyck and Misses Mary and Sophia Synck of Coldwater.

Former Marion Girl Married in Dayton

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Whitney of Covington, O., former residents of Marion, announce the wedding of their daughter, Miss Bernice of Dayton, to Joseph C. Donahue of Dayton.

The wedding was solemnized Saturday afternoon at the home of the officiating minister, Rev. Edwin S. Flory, pastor of the Riverdale Christian church of Dayton.

The bride chose a wedding gown of shell pink chiffon in silhouette style with a matching picture hat. Her corsage was of orchids. Mrs. Murrel J. Worth, the matron of honor, was attired in pale club chiffon fashioned on long lines, with a picture hat of the same shade. Her bouquet was of yellow roses. Mr. Worth attended Mr. Donahue as best man.

After a short trip Mr. and Mrs. Donahue will be at home at 733 north Main street, Dayton. The bride, a graduate of Harding High school in the class of 1924, is personal shopper for the Elder Johnston Co. Mr. Donahue is an inspector in Dayton.

The bride's sister, Mrs. J. R. Stroud, entertained at a reception following the wedding service.

Later in the day, Tierney is said to have remarked that he had put something over on the police and had saved 709 bottles of beer and a fine. The police, hearing of his boast late Saturday afternoon, paid a return visit and when he again said the locked room was occupied by a roomer, Chief Marks placed a patrolman on guard and with another patrolman started out to find the roomer.

Realizing the game was up, Tierney unlocked the door and the beer was found on shelves. Cards placed here and there on the shelves provided the dates on which that particular beer was made. Tierney and the beer were taken to police headquarters. Arraigned before Municipal Judge W. R. Martin this morning he pleaded guilty and was fined. He paid the fine and was released.

D. Theobill of 450 west Center street, the fourth victim to fall into the hands of the state prohibition man and local police in the series of raids Friday afternoon, was fined $100 and costs by Judge Martin when he pleaded guilty to charges of illegal possession of liquor. He paid and was released. A gallon and a half of whisky was found at the Theobill home.

William Naylor of 426 west Center street, also caught in the raid, paid a fine of $200 and costs while J. G. Johnson of 454½ west Center street and Harry Hemminger of 311 Clinton street, who were fined $300 each, were released under bond for the payment of the fines.

GALION MEN WILL FACE GRAND JURY

Physician and Farmer Arrange To Furnish $5,000 in Bucyrus Court.

Special to The Star
BUCYRUS, Aug. 24—Dr. O. R. Keckley, prominent Galion physician and Cletes Sehls, 28, a farmer residing near Galion, were bound over to the Crawford county grand jury under bond of $5,000 each in Mayor Arthur Schuler's court today. The men are charged with participating in an illegal operation performed on Miss Ivolene Gates, 17, of Galion, who died Saturday night in a Galion hospital.

The two men arranged to furnish bond following their arraignment this morning.

Dr. Keckley's signed statement, made at the county jail Sunday afternoon, admitted the performance of an illegal operation upon Miss Gates, according to Prosecutor J. D. Sears, who also is said to have procured a statement from Sehls admitting having made arrangements for the operation. A deathbed statement made by the girl just before her death also is in the hands of the prosecutor, it is said.

The petition also asks, alternately, a motion asking Lewis to submit money due on a Florida real estate transaction to W. Sandy and William H. Watkins who brought the suit.

False Gods Attacked in Union Service Sermon

Rev. Carl V. Roop Gives Talk at Prospect Street M. E. Church; Rev. Karl W. Patow Presides at Joint Meeting.

Relating the story of the sins of the people of Israel and their deliverance by the prophet Gideon, Rev. Carl V. Roop, pastor of the First United Brethren church, delivered the sermon at the union services last night at the Prospect Street M. E. church, with Rev. Karl W. Patow of the Prospect Street church as presiding officer for the meeting.

Rev. Mr. Roop chose as his text Judges 6:14, 15, "Go in this, thy might, and thou shalt save Israel from the hand of the Midianites. . . . Surely I will be with thee."

Excerpts of the sermon follow; "And Israel sinned. They were guilty of this so often. They turned away from the living and loving Jehovah God to erect altars and images to the worship of Baal. And down before these self-made, man-made idols they went crying loud and long.

Sins Always Punished

"For their sins they were punished. That is generally the rule. A curse and a scourge and punishment follows in the wake of sin. A low heathen people, the Midianites, with bad customs and worse practices, came to afflict them.

"For seven years they cried to Baal in their affliction for deliverance. But Baal had no heart to sympathize, no voice to answer, no ears to hear; and their cries were dumb and dead as they were made. Finally a decided minority offered a real, true prayer to God, who was pleased to honor and answered them by sending the prophet and leader, Gideon."

Here Rev. Mr. Roop told the story of how Gideon drove out the Midianites. Then bringing the message up to the present, Rev. Mr. Roop said "...so must we purge ourselves and repent and look beyond the false gods of this world to the Lord of Hosts for strength to drive out the Midianites of sin that are afflicting us.

"But before there can be a divine visitation, there must be an ethical readjustment; before there can be a religious awakening, there must be a sincere desire on the part of the people; before there can be a baptism of Pentecost, there must be unity of prayer and waiting. Before souls can be saved, there must be suffering in 10,000 gardens of Gethsemane. There must be a destruction of the gods of gold, the serpents of selfishness, the passions of pleasure, the idols of indifference and the dragons of delay.

God's Way Different

"God's ways are not our ways. Gideon, youngest, weakest, yet leader and victor. The Pharisees laughed at John the Baptist, yet he was the fore-runner of Christ. Aristocracy made fun of Abraham Lincoln, yet he was our greatest president. Modernism tried to shake William Jennings Bryan, yet he stood like Gibraltar and held adamant to the fundamentals and orthodoxy of truth. Culture tries to make light of Billy Sunday, yet he has won thousands to Christ. Moses was the son of a Hebrew slave. David was a shepherd boy. God gave his only begotten son, born in a manger, to become the world's redeemer.

"This world needs to hear again the thunders of Mt. Sinai; it needs the sweet whispers of Calvary to enter the soul; the desert of man's heart needs to blossom with peace and good will, like the rose; the cities of Zion need to teach the old story of redeeming love again and again, until the waters of the sea will sing anthems of immortal glory and the mountains and hills will preach sermons of everlasting life and repentance be stamped on the altars of our hearts and the modern Midianites of sin will be successfully and victoriously driven out," Rev. Roop concluded.

ILLNESS FATAL TO GALION RESIDENT

Mrs. Philip Schuler Succumbs at Home; Funeral Tuesday Morning.

Special to The Star
GALION, Aug. 24—Mrs. Mary A. Schuler, wife of Philip Schuler, died Saturday at 10 p. m. at her home at 462 south Boston street. Mrs. Schuler suffered from sugar diabetes and uremic poisoning was the direct cause of the death.

The deceased was born in Toledo June 15, 1855, and when one year of age she, with her parents, George and Catherine Seifritz Amann came to this city where she has resided since that time. THREE MEN SHOT IN N. Y. GANG MASSACRE

Latest Outrage Follows Closely on Bandit Warfare of Friday.

the killings, from families of police victims, by bandit victims, and a taxicab driver whose exact status had been in doubt, still tugged at the hearts of newspaper readers.

Contention of Mrs. Herbert Haase, whose husband was slain with the two babies Friday that he was not one of them, found support today with Detective Philip Knecht who took part in the battle.

Another wounded taxi driver, first to overtake the stalled bandit taxi, shot Haase, he said.

"At no time did I see Haase shoot. He was driving 50 miles an hour and couldn't. The two bandits shot from the rear seat all through the chase. Haase had no gun when his body was picked up."

"How could he be a bandit?" the widowed mother of two little children asked. "Bandits don't come home every night and pour beer help wanted ads, help the wives with the work, and live in a dump like this."

To Get Pensions

The police victims will be given inspector's funerals today. Services for motorcycle Patrolman Churchill will be at Church of Our Lady of Mercy.

The widows and families of the two men will receive $300 each from the Mendoza Fur Dyeing Co., whose payroll theft caused their deaths. They also will receive $3,000 from the police pension fund, $5,000 over a period of 50 weeks, and half pay thereafter.

Meanwhile the life of James Giordiano, 13, another victim of the Friday slaughter, hangs by a slender thread. A bullet is lodged near his heart. A slight movement may bring a fatal pressure, or the weight of the bullet itself may cause death.

Owens Wins Title.

R. C. (Bob) Owens captured the Marion country club golf championship yesterday in a 36 hole final match, defeating K. M. Bower four and three. In the second flight H. C. Colley defeated Dr. E. L. Brady five and three.

Roadster Stolen.

James Willis of 565 Silver street reported the theft of his Chrysler roadster to the police last night. The car carried an Ohio license 1960-538 and motor No. 60608, was stolen from Lee street, Willis told the police.

AUTO STOLEN IN KENTON WRECKED

An Oldsmobile stolen early Sunday morning from Wilbur Young of Franklin street, Kenton, was wrecked on a curve between Meeker and Big Island on route 30, Sunday morning. Authorities today are hunting two young men who are believed to have been occupants of the automobile.

Although the car was demolished and considerable blood was lost by at least one of the men, no trace of them could be found today. The automobile overturned several times.

THREE MEETINGS TO BE HELD AT CHURCH

First United Brethren Announces Services; Chorus To Sing at Agosta.

Three meetings have been scheduled at First United Brethren church this week. In addition, the Male chorus will give a program Sunday night at the Agosta M. E. church, consisting of sacred hymns, secular songs, southern melodies and Negro spirituals.

Tonight at 7:30 the Otterbein Guild will meet with Miss Alma McDaniel of 507 south Pearl street. The Builders' Sunday school class will meet at the Cover Messenger home on the Pleasant Hill pike west of Marion Tuesday night. The class will leave the church at 6:15 p. m. A picnic supper and program have been planned. "Loyalty in Prayer" will be the subject for prayer services Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. Rev. Carl V. Roop, pastor, will preach. Billy Lucas will be in charge of the song program, aided by a young people's choir.

MARION ELKS WILL ATTEND OHIO MEET

Cedar Point Convention Opens Today; Local Delegates To Go Tuesday.

Carter Patton, exalted ruler, E. H. Huggins, secretary, Mayor L. Don Jones and F. M. Paschall are among the dozen or so members of the local order of Elks who will go to Cedar Point Tuesday morning to attend the annual convention of the Ohio Elks association which opened this morning.

The convention opened with William H. Reinhart of Sandusky, former state president in charge, and with Clarence J. Brown, secretary of state delivering the principal address. A response to an address of welcome by Mayor Charles Miller of Sandusky was given by J. C. A. Leppelman, president of the association.

Tuesday's program provides for a cruise on Lake Erie and Thursday night will be held the annual parade.

MAN ARRESTED IN LIMA ON CHARGE

O. Turney, 42, was arrested in Lima yesterday and brought back to this city last night to answer to a charge of giving a check for $200 when he did not have that much money in the bank.

The arrest was made on an affidavit filed by Edwin Hartold of Harrold Bros. garage who charged that Turney had given their company a check for $200 on the Old National bank of Lima Aug. 1, 1930. He is being held for arraignment before Municipal Judge W. R. Martin.

Daily Proverb—"From the same flower the bee extracts honey and the wasp gall."

Of the 28,250 signs which marred the appearance of the highways of Maryland a few weeks since, only 7,000 remain. Evidently Maryland doesn't propose that her scenic beauty shall be longer hidden.

Set up last week in a seven-story building in New York City, a 15,000-gallon still valued at $1,000,000 was seized by dry law enforcement agents Thursday. In New York City the haste shown by the dry people in getting busy is likely to be held highly unethical.

An ambulance driver who speeded against a red light, passed a street car on the wrong side and kept his siren blowing was given a suspended sentence in the traffic court of New York City, the court holding that an ambulance had no special rights in traffic. Can it be that any court at this late date doesn't appreciate the fact that advertising pays?

Governor Charles W. Bryan, of Nebraska, announcing a plan to give state highway construction contracts to counties, made the provision that each worker shall receive no more than $100. That certainly will spread employment, but it will mean an awful lot of worrying on the part of contractors.

With thousands of trucks competing in the Intercity Drivers' safety contest, out in Illinois, the frequency of accidents was decreased thirty-five per cent. during the year ended June 30, 1931. One hundred and forty-eight fleets operating an average of 9,045 vehicles over a total of 100,795,651 miles suffered but 7,914 accidents, an average of one accident to 12,492 miles. Why not a motor drivers' safety contest in every state in the union?

Cornell university announces the transformation of annual plants into perennials by the use of the X-rays, the plant utilized for experimentation by the Cornell scientists being Euchlaena Mexicana, the closest wild relative to corn. If corn and other plants can be transformed into perennials, the time may come when, the fields once planted, the old song, so far as farm life is concerned, may be paraphrased to go: "Nobody works, but mother."

Science Wars To Save Trees.

Unless plant scientists of the world can devise new defenses against insect pests and fungus diseases, some of the important trees seemed doomed to extinction.

The chestnut, one of the country's valuable lumber trees and esteemed since the pioneer days for its succulent nuts, has practically disappeared. The chestnut blight has wiped out great groves, and only the dead trunks remain with generally here and there a living branch where these century-old veterans still fight for existence against a new and deadly enemy.

The elms of Europe are doomed, we are told, unless science succeeds in a fight against a beetle which carries the devastating fungus. Starting in Holland ten years ago, the beetle has moved eastward until Berlin's historic elms are now infected and dying rapidly, while desperate efforts of Europe's best entomologists fail to stop their ravages.

Another insect scourge has blighted the tender tips of trees in a wide belt starting just south of Canton and extending beyond the Ohio river into West Virginia. This is a particularly alarming destroyer, since it is not confined to any one tree, but attacks a whole forest or orchard, killing the new growth at the tips of the branches.

Orchardists long ago learned to control the insect enemies to which fruit trees are subject, but the preservation of forest trees presents a vastly difficult problem. Spraying is impractical excepting on a restricted scale, applicable mostly to lawn specimens. The principal hope lies in nature's remarkable foresight in providing a natural enemy for nearly every insect pest and the scientists of the world are working diligently in an effort to locate and propagate these friendly insects.

The speed and thoroughness with which science eradicated or controlled the Mediterranean fruit fly when it wasted Florida citrus groves a little more than a year ago shows the result that may be accomplished when science comes to the aid of nature in its eternal fight against its enemies.

It is said that a cure has been found for the chestnut blight, and another generation may see these trees replaced in American forests. Little is heard nowadays of the Gypsy moth which once ravaged our own elms.

No group of men faces a more serious problem than the plant specialists of the world have before them in devising a defense against the European elm beetle and these new enemies which seem to spring from nowhere. If they continued unchecked in Europe, they will reach America sooner or later. The time to fight them, if they can be fought at all, is now before they have a chance to tear down what nature has been a century or two in building up.

Sweet Uses of Adversity.

A hard lesson is longest remembered. That's the bright spot in this era of business depression. Nearly every one knows wherein many of the causes lie. Most of us had been warned that it was coming, but it takes bitter experience to make an impression. Perhaps when conditions improve, the lesson may be remembered long enough to establish a good long era of that normalcy which stands between inflated prosperity and mean adversity.

This difficult period was fathered by the ease with which the world forgot the privations of war, and remembered its artificial stimulus.

It was easy to forget breadless and meatless days, short rations of coal, skimp clothes at padded prices and all the wartime inconveniences, but it also was easy to remember the silk shirts, the shining new automobiles, the days when employers went about begging men to work at high wages.

Manufacturers, remembering the days when they were filling not only America's swollen wartime demands, but those of half the rest of the world as well, went on building bigger factories.

Merchants with the bustle of business before their eyes, moved into bigger store-rooms and expanded their stocks.

Normalcy came in consumption, but it was still the period of wartime boom so far as production and distribution were concerned. Added to this was the spectacle of an entire citizenship buying stocks it never expected to claim with money which it did not have.

A weaker political and economic structure might have collapsed completely when the awakening came, and it is a tribute to America's soundness that the depression has been carried with so little destruction of the fundamental things of government and of its business and industrial organization.

It has been a time for serious thinking. Practically all the elements from the top to the bottom of the country's business structure have had occasions to stop and take inventory. In many cases there has been a big let-down from the boom days, but only in relatively few has there been actual ruin.

It is not the first time that this country has experienced the stimulus of an excessively high wave of prosperity and the slump which followed. In every case there was a climb back to the levels of good times.

Unquestionably, this period eventually will give way to new prosperity, possibly moving steadily along until it returns to the levels of 1929. By that time a new generation will be at the helm which may regard the stories of 1931 as the tales of old men. It is more likely, however, that the lessons of this period will be retained by enough of the population to make some of the mistakes leading up to this depression unlikely to be experienced again.

If this be true, then the difficulties through which the country has been passing will not be entirely devoid of good, for a lesson learned through a painful mistake is one not likely to be quickly forgotten.

Sensible living, reasonable economy and saving, wise spending, honest work for fair wages, prices based on a just reckoning of costs and profits, sound investment instead of wild speculation—these are some of the lessons in the book of experience now being written. If any of them are learned, America will have something of good to show for its hard schooling. If all should be incorporated into practice, an economic Utopia would result.

A visitor in Washington, who took a nap upon a park bench, awoke to find his shoes gone. It's not safe to fall asleep in the open in the national capital, even if congress isn't in session at the time.

America leads the world in the consumption of sweets with Britain second, although a decline has been in evidence there of late as the result of the depression. Strangely, the depression seems to have accentuated the sales of chocolates and other candies over here, but it's possible that prohibition may be responsible, of course.

The gold stock of the United States reached a new all-time high level this week when it went to $4,983,000,000, an increase of $19,000,000 over last week and $491,000,000 over the total in the United States August 20 1930, the comparative date a year ago. But then, riches do not always bring happiness.

Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania, hits the appeal of Governor Pinchot, of that state, for a special session of congress looking to federal aid for the unemployed. The senator holds that governors "must not evade responsibilities" on unemployment and declares that the Keystone state is solvent and able to raise money for relief. That's no way to treat a politician who is seeking publicity in the hope of attracting the presidential lightning with it.

Write Early or Pay More.

If you're thinking of writing a letter to some one in Great Britain or Ireland, better do it before September 1. On and after that date it will take a five-cent stamp, instead of the two-cent sticker which now carries first-class mail to these lands. Economical persons even will be watchful of their mail to Canada. The rate to points north of the international boundary will be jumped to three cents at the same time.

Since 1908 the United States and Great Britain have exchanged letters at the two-cent rate, but Postmaster General Brown has boosted the rate by official order under postal laws giving him wide authority. He hopes in this way to wipe out a little of the postal deficit which, for 1931, is estimated at $151,000,000.

The postmaster general has also advocated increasing the domestic letter rate to 2½ cents, but this requires congressional approval, which has been withheld. The fact that the first-class mail is the only division which regularly operates at a profit, makes congressmen unfriendly to the proposal that it be required to contribute further to make up the loss in the other branches.

The foreign increase, it is predicted, will raise the revenues only $500,000 a year, which will not go far toward relieving the annual loss of $151,000,000.

If you really must write a letter to any European country, why not send it to Spain? Membership in the Pan-American Postal union gives the mayest republic the two-cent rate.

PURELY A FAMILY AFFAIR.

Editorial Opinion.

MR. HOOVER ACTS.

In a single day's news we have at least four different proposals for meeting the unemployment problem in the coming winter. Mr. Green and the American Federation of Labor demand a "conference of employers and labor" to make work. They fail to explain how the mere act of bringing industrial and labor leaders together in one place is to inspire them with any more magical powers or any more brilliant solutions than they have separately displayed up to the present.

Governor Pinchot demands an extra session—not to make work, but to pass out federal relief. He fails to explain how the needy this winter can be relieved as efficiently by a politics-ridden congress and a federal bureaucracy as by the local and state agencies, both public and private, which met the burden last winter.

Representative Patman, of Texas, also wants a special session—not exactly to relieve the needy, it seems, but to "revive purchasing power." Again there is a lamentable gap in the program. The manner in which to revive purchasing power is a mystery as yet unsolved by an individual congressman, and Mr. Patman neglects to show how they will be collectively any wiser. Incautiously, however, he does drop a hint as to what will actually happen. He announces that he will himself re-introduce his bill for full payment of the adjusted compensation certificates. Lading out doles to the most vocal and best-organized minorities may build congressional fences, but it is about as crude, as wasteful and as useless a method of meeting the unemployment problem as could be imagined.

There is, however, a fourth proposal. Mr. Hoover summons Mr. Walter S. Gifford and makes him what amounts to a one-man committee for organizing and coordinating all existing agencies of relief to the single end of relieving those who may require aid. We do not think that Mr. Gifford will produce magical results; we do not even suppose that his efforts will reach every case of suffering or want which the winter may produce. But when an emergency appears it does seem to us that the best and most practical way of meeting it is to put a competent man to work with the tools that we already have.

When a farm house catches fire, those who really want to save it do not begin by trying to pass a bond issue through the legislature for the laying of fire mains. They organize a basket brigade, and they get results. What is required today is not the deliberative methods of congress; it is the flexibility and originality of individual effort. It is really difficult to understand how any one with any sense of perspective can believe seriously that an extra session of congress will be of any actual assistance in the kind of difficulties which now surround us. No one knows how to cure the depression—not even congress. But many people do know how to meet the pressing needs of actual relief and have met them, time and again. Agencies, traditions, habits of mind all exist for dealing with them. To begin by knocking down all the established emergency machinery is a poor way of coping with an emergency.—New York Herald Tribune.

CANAL SEVENTEEN YEARS OLD

The seventeenth anniversary of the opening of the Panama canal has just been observed. The turmoil of the European war was on when it was opened. So a ceremonial parade of ships which has been thought of as an appropriate initiation was delayed. It has never been held. Traffic grew. Then came the proposal for a second Atlantic-Pacific waterway. Such a survey of a Nicaraguan route has been made by United States engineers. It has been urged as necessary for greater defense security. But use of the canal has dropped recently. The tolls for the year ended in June totaled $24,645,000. This was a drop of $2,462,000 compared with the year before. This and other considerations probably will delay the Nicaraguan route. Backers of the St. Lawrence river seacut are urging that it be completed next. It is declared to be more necessary than a second route across the isthmus. There seems to be sound sense in that view.—Toledo Blade.

Twenty Years Ago.

It was Thursday, August 24.

The United States government was considering the building of seven national highways at a cost of $148,000,000. They were to radiate from Washington to Portland, Maine; Buffalo, New York; Seattle, Washington; San Francisco, California; San Diego, California; Austin, Texas, and Miami, Florida. At the present cost of highways, $148,000,000 would hardly start them.

Mrs. Anna M. Shuster and Mr. George T. Hammer were married by Justice Charles H Conley.

Pearl Lightner returned to his home here after four years' service in the navy.

Chillicothe took both games of a double-header, two to one and three to two.

Miss Frances Barkley and Mr. Vern Lowmiller were married by Rev. F. E. Zechiel.

Mrs F. H. Raffensperger was hostess at a shower given Miss Stella Dietsch, who was soon to marry Mr Monty Killman.

Daily Sun Bath a Tonic.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

When driving through Central park I am always thrilled by the beautiful trees and green pastures located within the very heart of the greatest city in the world. It never surprises me that there are so many people in the park. The citizens are attracted there by the beauty and fragrance of the trees and flowers.

In every park there are many men with their coats and hats off, sunning themselves on the park benches. I approve of this with all my heart.

A sun bath is one of the best health tonics at our disposal. I advise all my readers to take advantage of the beneficial rays of the sun, at every time of the year.

Even though you may be living in the city and can not afford to go to the country, you can get sunlight. If you do not live near a park, a street car or other conveyance will quickly take you to one of the many city parks.

It is not uncommon to see men, women and children on the roofs of buildings. Such an exposure to the sun is often more advantageous than the park, in view of its privacy. It is a good thing to remove as much clothing as possible and take these sun baths as often as you can.

In spite of the passing criticisms, I believe a good coat of tan now will insure health and pleasure for the coming months. Sun baths for children are particularly important.

It has been definitely shown that a disease such as rickets, which occurs in children, can be prevented by adequate sunlight. The disease can be cured when a child with rickets is exposed to sunlight. Any child who has been exposed to the sun usually thrives better than one who has not had this privilege.

The first time that you take a sun bath, expose yourself for a very brief time. Gradually increase the exposure until your skin becomes accustomed to the light. Remember that in small doses, the sun refreshes and benefits the body. In large doses it burns and does damage.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

MARGARET W. Q—What causes a pain across the lower part of my back?

A—This may be due to lumbago. Application of heat and electricity are helpful in some instances.

* * *

MRS. R.L. Q—My baby has a hard time cutting teeth, what do you advise?

A—Your doctor will prescribe medication to soften the gums or will incise the gum and allow the teeth to erupt.

A.N.M. Q—Have you a real treatment for lumbago and sciatica?

A—Try to locate the underlying cause of the trouble before attempting treatment. Application of heat should give relief meanwhile. For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

Dr. Copeland will answer for readers of this paper questions on medicinal, hygienic and sanitation subjects that are of general interest. Where the subject of a letter is such that it can not be published in this column, Dr. Copeland will, when the question is a proper one, write you personally if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is enclosed. Address all inquiries to Dr. Royal S. Copeland, in care of this paper.

What Will Better Marion?

The following is the answer of one citizen to the question, "What Will Better Marion?"—the second in the questionnaire circulated by Dr. Carl W. Sawyer to get a comprehensive insight into the community feeling regarding our home city. In the hope of arriving at a remedy for handicaps, if any, from which Marion may suffer. From day to day, answers of various citizens to the same question will be given publicity on this page.

More public spirit and civic pride on the part of each one of us.

A little more push and cooperation with city officials and a little, oh yes, quite a little less "knocking."

Improved streets, of course.

We do need a public auditorium of some kind, centrally located, in which to house various conventions which Marion should have. I have one convention in mind in particular which would be an inspiration to Marion, but it is out of the question to even hope for it without such an auditorium.

Whole-hearted support of worthy projects. Comments on our present Community fund drive prompts me to offer this. As I mentioned before, working people in particular are too prone to sit back and let the other fellow do the work in something of this sort, and then wake up in time to criticize. All of which is poor advertising for any town or city.

More loyalty and support for our home merchants would, without a doubt, help Marion to get on her feet.

Gracian Chemistry.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

The higher reaches of the Greek mind were little concerned with experimental research. Laboratory methods for discovering new properties of matter were not congenial to the Greek mode of thought. They preferred to theorize, to philosophize, rather than to investigate. The philosophy of Aristotle was the highest point reached by the Greeks. Aristotle made the greatest contribution of the Greeks to the development of chemical thought and practice. And his influence was paramount and lasted for many centuries.

According to Holmyard in his "Makers of Chemistry," Aristotle appears to have been one of the first people in history to insist upon an experimental and observational basis for a knowledge of nature. He deeply concerned himself with a study of the constitution of matter; and his theories are to be found mainly in the work on the heavens, books three and four, in the work on generation and corruption, and in the work entitled "Meteorologica."

Aristotle supposed that the basis of the material world was a primitive matter, which received character of individuality when it took on form. There are four elements, Fire, Air, Water and Earth. The primary qualities are the fluid, the dry, the hot, the cold. Aristotle points out that each element possesses two of them. Thus we have the only possible combination—since hot and cold, fluid and dry are opposites:

Hot and dry, assigned to fire.
Hot and fluid, assigned to air
Cold and fluid, assigned to water.
Cold and dry, assigned to earth.

According to Aristotle, all substances other than the original elements, are composed of all the elements or "simple" bodies. The reasons he gives as follows.

For they all contain earth because every "simple body" is to be found specially and most abundantly in its own place. And they all contain water because—a—the compound must possess a definite outline and water, alone of the "simple" bodies, is readily adaptable in shape; moreover—b—earth has no power of cohesion without the moist. On the contrary, the moist is what holds it together; for it would fall to pieces if the moist were eliminated from it completely. They contain earth and water, then, for the reasons we have given; and they contain air and fire, because these are contrary to earth and water—earth being contrary to air and water to fire, in so far as one substance can be "contrary" to another. Now all compounds presuppose in their coming-to-be constituents which are contrary to one another; and in all compounds there is contained one set of the contrasted extremes, i. e., cold-dry—earth—and cold-fluid—water. Hence the other set must be contained in them also, so that every compound will contain all the "simple" bodies.—Copyright, 1931, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Dennison Turned Sheridan Down.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH.

Because of his expert knowledge of horses, Phil Sheridan was kept on duty at Chicago buying horses for the Army for many months after the start of the Civil war, but his urgent request for service in the field was at least heard, and he was sent to join General Halleck's headquarters at Pittsburgh Landing. His headquarters' duties were not confining, and he went frequently out towards the firing line, where the Northern forces were slowly pressing the Confederates back, to watch operations, usually stationing himself where General Sherman's division was operating.

He and Sherman came from the same part of Ohio, and General Sherman knew Sheridan's family well. The two saw each other frequently, and talked over the situation and the future with regard to each other's share of duty. One day General Sherman asked Sheridan if he would like to have the colonelcy of an Ohio regiment. He replied promptly in the affirmative, and the general said he believed he could manage to bring that about.

For the first time, although it was not the last during his service in the war, Sherman found that the promises of public men and politicians were not to be relied upon and that it was never safe to undertake to control the actions of a civil officer. It was a short time after that that General Sherman informed Sheridan that he was sorry, but that what he proposed to him could not be done, as the governor—it was Governor Dennison—would not consent to it, and the law gave absolute authority into his hands. Dennison had either appointed another to the position in view, or promised to appoint him. Thus because of action by Governor Dennison, Sheridan did not get into active service in the war as the commander of an Ohio regiment though probably it made no great difference to him.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. MINTYRE.

New York, Aug. 24—Diary of a modern Pepys: To market, buying a ripe Cheddar cheese, and, picking up Jack Benny and his lady, carried them to the Warwick. Then stopping to see Dave Levy, the haberdasher, who has been a-journeying on the continent and also W. U. Day, the auto merchant.

Home where awaited a vexed lady telling a monstrous tale against a man high in public life which I do not believe, knowing ways of blackmailers. So laboring awhile, and to a tea talking to Harry Silvey, whose gray hair lays the neatest ever I saw, and to Frank Tours, the orchestra conductor.

Joe and Margaret Moore to dinner, but left early. My wife and I fell to discussing the evening. I sat on her front porch wearing my first long trousers and grandma passing inquired: "Is 'itty man calling on booful lady in him new suit?" Then to the splendorous Follies and talking later to Ziegfeld, Bernard Sobol and Eddie Welch.

Nothing is quite so difficult as picking up the threads of New York's running story after several weeks absence. The metropolitan changes are so swift and varied that at first blush everything seems copy. However, the most distinct impression is the absence of that black war-like pessimism that keeps Europe as taut as a fiddle string.

All the news hot from Gallup, New Mexico: "Out here we don't milk. We juice a cow. And a local Indian reads your stuff daily in a Phoenix paper. A Chinese laundryman opened up over a garage one day this spring. That night some one tossed a hoot owl over his transom. He jumped out a window, hit running and has never been back. You probably are looking upon this as the ravings of an old desert rat. Well, I was born in the shadows of the Hotel Astor, was a night waiter at Jack's eleven years and after five years here I talk, act and feel like a native.

There's a decided contrast in living—from hell-roaring Jack's to the sleep hamlet on the Santa Fe trail. Gallup, at least from a train window, does not suggest the feverish activity of its name. Yet Gallup can offer a few surprises. Dropping into a very masculine lunch room during the train's stop one late evening, a bright blond, quite reminiful of the ellin Claire Luce, served transients coffee with one hand and read Walter de la Mare from the other.

It was at Gallup on another stop that a sun-tanned long-horn peered into the baggage car at my Boston terrier and drawled: "What kind of a houn' do you call that, Bub?"

New York baked through a hot summer with the smallest number of roof gardens in thirty years. The only new al fresco experiments were an offering of old-fashioned melodrama—such as Lincoln J. Carter's "Fast Mail"—atop an upper Broadway hotel and Gil Boag's club on the St. Moritz roof. No one knows the why of the roof garden debacle. Like the pug dog and puff sleeves, they simply went out. Fifteen years ago open-air cafes atop the Waldorf Majestic, McAlpin, Astor and the Bossert in Brooklyn were high spots of summer diversion.

A curious grape vine telegraphy slithers through the Tenderloin. I became acutely aware of it one night months ago. Stopping at a corner coffee pot place to telephone a garage I passed a table where a man was saying: "They ought to be shooting extras now." Twenty minutes later Times Square was filled with cries: "Two Shot in Street Battle." I became slightly giddy.

I talked to a Japanese juggler recently who can hold three bamboo reeds with spinning plates atop them in each hand while another reed with a spinning plate balances on his forehead. He has been practicing for more than eighteen years and tells me his most trying moment was when a waggish stage hand in Portland, Oregon, scattered a sneeze powder on his mat during the climax of his spinning. But he held back kerchoos until he took his bow. And mean as it was, I still think it a beaut of an idea.

A Washington Daybook.

BY HERBERT PLUMMER.

Washington, Aug. 24—Now that Charles Evans Hughes has become chief justice of the United States it is conceded by many that John W. Davis is perhaps in complete possession of the title of leading practitioner before the nation's highest tribunal.

Before Hughes went to the bench these two were rated as the leaders among the lawyers appearing before the court.

Few weeks went by when the court was in session that Davis and Hughes were not presenting arguments. Davis has established a remarkable record for supreme court work—a record that only Chief Justice Hughes can match.

And it is noteworthy that the two were defeated for the presidency—Davis, the Democrat, and Hughes, the Republican.

Davis' presidential hopes were smothered under the Coolidge landslide of 1924. Hughes left the bench in 1916 to go down to defeat at the hands of Woodrow Wilson.

To watch Davis before the court is to get a picture of what court attaches describe as "the perfect lawyer."

He commands the undivided attention of the whole bench. They enjoy hearing him smile at his apt metaphors and even grin broadly at his humor.

It is said that the late William Howard Taft often would grant Davis an extension of a few minutes in presenting his case because he enjoyed hearing him argue.

But Davis is credited with habits of brevity in argument before the court. It is one of his strongest points.

Under rules of the court an hour is allowed each side for oral argument of cases on the regular docket. This, of course, is subject to extensions of time where deemed necessary by the court itself due to the intricacy of the matters involved or the number of parties joining in the proceeding.

Rarely does Davis take up all his time, even where he has no other counsel with whom he must share that time.

And this habit of brevity on the part of Davis must appeal to the justices. Their time is valuable and crowded to a degree that imposes heavy burdens on them.

Actually many of the rules under which they operate and to which counsel are held rigidly are designed specifically to save unnecessary physical wear on the justices.

For example, a note attached to the printed book of rules requires that briefs shall be printed or of a fixed size and on unglazed paper, heavily leaded to make for easy reading. The type must be clear and "record matter that could play no direct part" engagement to Kirk and had taken this means of breaking it. The difficulty with this theory was that it was hard to imagine any one's taking Juanita away unless she was ill, or willing. Nelly worried considerably about it, and about Kirk. Kirk was so changed.

Indeed, there were incidents connected with Juanita's visit and departure that Kirk had not communicated to Nelly. Incidents that puzzled and troubled him. Her strange behavior in Ledbetter's presence. Her relief when Ledbetter had gone. Her goodbye that night in the hall . . . She must have known she was going . . . And yet—she might indeed be ill. Very ill. Alone with the marquesa. And where? . . .

Divitt's place looked pretty much the same, as far as Kirk could see. Fewer people there, and not the same crowd. But Divitt was in his place behind the wheel and yonder was the dwarf in his red clothes. Even the Moon was back, among the tables, offering cigarets, flowers . . .

Nelly wore her red and gold dress. No jewels. Kirk would not let her bring them home, but now that the thief was caught at the Cranshaws perhaps she could have them again. Nelly looked about her, her pulses quickening. How excited she felt back at the magic place. She must have a flower for luck.

"The veiled lady," she said. "I wish she would bring me a flower."

Kirk had assisted Nelly to her chair at the roulette wheel. He turned, signaling to the Moon. After a moment the Moon came, held out her tray. Nelly's fluttering hand chose a Cape jessamine.

"Pin it on me," she said.

The Moon obeyed, her fingers shaking. She wondered if Kirk saw. It was agony to be near him like this. How could he help knowing her? . . . She stayed in the far end of the room, not venturing near the roulette wheel again.

Gabreau came back to her with excited tidings.

"De old lady win! De old lady brek de bank!"

Juanita, glancing in that direction, saw Nelly playing intensely with flushed cheeks. Saw Kirk begging her to leave. But Nelly would not leave.

The telephone rang back in Molly's cage. Gabreau stepped in and answered it.

"It fer Meester Stanard," he told Juanita, and went to call him.

Juanita moved away with her tray, up toward the roulette wheel. Kirk passed her, not looking at her, going toward the telephone. Juanita heard his voice. "Hello! . . . This is Stanard."

Then something happened at the roulette wheel. Nelly was sweeping in her winings, laughing. Suddenly her face grew gray and fixed, and she dropped quietly from the high chair to the floor.

"Get back! . . . Get back, everybody!" Divitt's shout.

Some one started to open a window, but Divitt stopped him. He hated things like this. They got in the papers . . . No open windows here.

"Get back!" he ordered again, gathering up the money Nelly had let fall, herding the crowd like sheep.

Only Juanita was there now kneeling, with Nelly in her arms. Gabreau had brought water. Juanita bathed the small white face.

"Call a physician," she said to Gabreau. "There now . . . There, now, Nelly. You'll be all right."

Juanita was in her room. Nelly was gone. Kirk had carried Nelly from the parlors to their car. The physician had come quickly, was with them . . . Kirk's eyes . . . Kirk's eyes, meeting hers . . .

Where her veil was she could not remember, nor when she had snatched it off . . . Perhaps when she had bent over Nelly, thinking she was dying. That was all she could remember, the thought that Nelly was dying . . .

"Call a physician," she had said to Gabreau.

And Nelly had opened her eyes that once and said, "Juanita! . . . I hear Juanita's voice . . . Kirk dear . . ."

Kirk was there. Kirk was looking at her—Juanita . . . Kirk was lifting Nelly. Nelly looked like a baby in Kirk's arms . . . That was all she had thought then, meeting Kirk's eyes. She felt as if he had always known . . . No, not that. As if he must inevitably know—some time.

He had spoken. "Juanita . . ." Not as Nelly had said it—blindly, gladly—but as one who cannot or will not believe . . . And then the doctor had come, and presently Kirk lifted Nelly in his arms, Juanita met his eyes again . . .

It had not mattered then. But now— Yet it had to be. Inevitably, it had to be. Life moved on a current, strong, unseen. Human hands could not stem it. Better to move with it . . .

Music was filtering into the court from the Tijon. The Mexican band . . . La Paloma . . . They had played La Paloma the night she had danced with Kirk in the Tijon patio . . . Dimly she thought of this as she lit the lamp. Dimly she thought of what Kirk had said when she sang it for him once. "Paloma—the piece has wings in it. You too have wings, Juanita. Will you fly away some day—beyond my reach?" And then that night at Tarpon Point, while the rain streamed around them . . . "Not dove's wings maybe, but a stormy petrel's . . ."

Beyond his reach! . . .

She took off the chiffon trousers, the red slippers, knowing it was the last time. She dressed herself in the first dress that came to her hand, pulled on the small black hat.

Music filtering into the court. La Paloma. "Wings, Juanita . . . Maybe a stormy petrel's . . . Will you fly beyond my reach?" . . .

They were playing again as she passed the parlors, though it was not an hour since Nelly had fallen from the high chair to the floor—not half an hour since Kirk had carried her like a baby in his arms . . . Divitt was in his place, raking in the money with the gestures of an automaton . . . Gabreau stood with his back to the door.

Juanita opened the iron gates, went out.

As she entered Royal street two automobiles drew to the curb in front of Divitt's place. Men in uniform got out. The gates opened again, and they went in.

Juanita crossed Royal street. There was the look of a sleep walker on her face.

It was toward morning that Kirk Stanard came back to Divitt's place and rang the bell. There was a padlock on the gate, but he rang—long rings that might have raised the dead. No answer came, and presently he remembered a gate that led from the Tijon patio probably into this court. He had seen it the night he talked there with Juanita. He walked quickly around to the Tijon, seeing no one as he went through the lobby except a boy behind the desk—a boy who looked at him with frightened eyes and asked no questions.

The gate had been broken as it with an axe, and tied again with rope. It too was padlocked. Kirk undid the rope and went in.

Silence. The silence of a forgotten cemetery. The parlor doors stood open. The lights still burned. Chairs and tables were overturned. Kirk made the circuit of the court, opening doors upon empty rooms. He started up the stair.

Suddenly he heard a sound—a long, bleating cry that came from an upper room, echoing through the court.

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

—BY JUDD M. LEWIS—

YESTERDAY was Sunday again. I know when it is going to be Sunday during vacation, because Saturday is the day my father and my uncle get paid and my father gives my mother his money and my uncle waits till the last minute before he pays his board, so that my mother gets to wondering if he is going to pay it or is going to ast her to wait another week, and then he pays her and she begins to worry about next week.

When I had let Jubilee down by the rope in his teeth and had put on my short britches and went down and milked the dummied brutes and fed my face and got washed by my ant and had stoken the cows to the pasture and had a swim, and the girls were there and we had started to go to Sunday school we stopped on the vacant lot to play ball, and we were having a good time and all of us were trying to make up our minds if Nibbs put Peanutts out on first when a man came across the lot and told us to close our faces and remember that it was Sunday and not make enough noise to disturb a whole neighborhood, and then he turned around and strutted off across the lot.

I said this was our lot and we would play ball in it all we wanted to for all of him or anyone else. But he had got quite a ways off before I said it so maybe he didn't hear me. I said I would go back to my barn where I had hid my steel hat and put it on and come back and play ball as much as I wanted to, but the Last Bag of Tripe said he would go and get it for me, so he did and we played ball again. When he got back with it I put it on and was going to start making a noise, but Feeble said it was time for Sunday school, so we lit out, but we got there ahead of time.

I was setting on the front steps with the bunch and we were talking about Samson and the Bear when someone that had crawled up on top of the Sunday school dropped a brick on the top of my steel hat. I bet he thought it wouldn't hurt me but I have got a stiff neck from it. It is a good thing my neck wasn't still below the brick lasted, because if my neck hadn't bent the brick might have drove the spine of my back right down through the Sunday school step and if I could not have pulled it back out I would have had to set there till the preacher came, and he would pretty near make me stay there till today, because it is wrong to work on Sunday, and anyhow when they had carried around me I would have had to go around with the piece of board sticking to me. The Last Bag of Tripe run away from Sunday school, so it was him.

Today was Monday and we tried to dig enough angleworms to make worm oil to rub on my neck, but just as we got a can full my grandfather saw them and went skeered. My neck is still stiff.

"Heart of a Wife"

—BY ADELE GARRISON—

Madge Tells Lillian of Her Desire to Have Dicky Help Revise Her Play.

I did not take Dicky's advice to go to bed until he was ready to help me with the revision of my third act, although I am afraid I gave him the impression I meant to follow his advice. But I knew Lillian was to be reckoned with, and as soon as I was sure Dicky was out of the house, I went in search of her.

She was not in her own room when I found her, but in the nursery chanting in low tones with Katherine, while my tiny daughter over whom we had all been so concerned, slept peacefully in her carriage on the screened porch outside. Both women looked up when I entered but it was Katherine, quickly seizing the conversational reins, who spoke first.

"Lady, take my wrist watch, also my lipstick!" she said extravagantly. "Lil tells me you've pulled off something pretty nifty in the line of the third act and that Veritzen's gaga over it."

"We was in full possession of his senses when he left me," I said.

Congratulations

"I am not meaning to insinuate that he has lost any of them," Katherine grinned. "Seriously, though,"—she crossed to me and kissed me,—"you know without any feeling how glad I am."

"Seconded, as read," Lillian chimed in.

Their faces were so friendly, so genuinely glad at my success that I had difficulty in answering them.

"It isn't fair to get a person all choky, and then expect her to make a speech," I said, "but I fancy you both know how warm you make my heart feel."

"Better lay off that warm stuff," Lillian advised, laughingly. "It's hot weather, anyway, you know. You'll need all your faculties if you are going to do that revision Phil wants. When do we start? Now?"

"In a few minutes," I told her. "Ask Katherine, prettily, to excuse us, and come along with me. I want to talk things over with you."

"How about it, Katherine?" Lillian grinned at my little kinswoman.

Lillian Senses Something

"Get out of here, both of you, before you wake my baby," Katherine said, and at the possessive pronoun and the adoring look she sent toward the sleeping child, the old demon of jealousy stirred again within me. At that moment, I would have given all my chances of success with my play for the privilege of caring for my baby with no other woman nearer than the next house.

It was not until I was in my own room again with the door closed that I next spoke to Lillian, but by that time, with her usual clairvoyance, she sensed something strange in my attitude.

"What's wrong" she asked as I bade her sit down in a voice that I tried vainly to keep from shaking.

"Nothing," I returned shortly.

"Ye-eh?" she drawled in the most approved distortion of the affirmative, while her keen eyes searched my face. "Well! maybe so, maybe so. But I never saw a mess of 'nothing' in my life with such potency to upset a perfect lady. Do you know I've been wondering whether I've done right by our Madgie in prodding you about finishing this play. Perhaps you'd be happier without a 'career' of any sort. Of course, from the point of view of anyone knowing your unusual gifts, you'd be making a grave mistake. But in the last analysis you have to decide those things for yourself, you know."

She knew! She had caught that involuntary shadowing of my eyes when Katherine had spoken of "my" baby, and she comprehended the unreasonable and rigidly repressed jealousy of my little kinswoman of which I was so ashamed.

It's Out At Last

But not even to Lillian could I openly acknowledge that feeling, and I took refuge in evasion.

"I think I feel toward my 'career'—if you can call it that—as some women regard their husbands."

"You neither can live with it nor without it?" Lillian queried with a grin, and with relief I saw that she did not intend to pursue her quizzing any further.

"Exactly," I answered, "and, of course, as long as I've started this play for Mr. Veritzen, I must finish it."

"Of course," she assented. "How long does he give you for writing the fourth act?"

"Ten days."

She frowned slightly.

"Not so good," she said, then more brightly, "but of course, you can manage it. Don't worry about that now. He wants this revision of the third act tomorrow, doesn't he?"

"At eleven." My throat was suddenly dry with the fear that she would be hurt by being kept out of the revision work, as I had determined she should be because I did not wish her to discover the speeches of Vickers which I subconsciously had made a caricature of Dicky's expressions. But there was no use postponing the reckoning, so I said pleadingly:

"Lillian, will you mind? I can't get out of it very well without hurting his feelings, but Dicky has offered to help me with those revisions."
